Ohio 33rd State To Give Approval To Equal Rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio became today the 33rd state to ratify an amendment to the U.S. Constitution assuring women equal rights under the law.

The Equal Rights Amendment was passed by the Ohio House last year, but the measure was stalled in Senate committee.

It emerged from the panel late last month. Backers attributed its success the second time around to support from the AFL-CIO, which had opposed ERA a year ago.

The proposed amendment was passed by the Montana legislature Jan. 21.

It must be ratified by 38 states to become the 27th Amendment.

The ERA provides "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, who carried the resolution on the floor, called it "an idea whose time has come."

She said: "It will not appreciably change my life. But there are women in the audience who have children whose lives will be changed."

Debate lasted about two hours, with eight senators speaking for the proposal. Four others argued against it.

The most impassioned plea to reject the resolution came from Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, who said he is a believer in equal rights for women.

He argued, however, the ERA, if approved by 38 states would not assure women of anything.

"All it is going to do is give your attorney another constitutional amendment to file suit under," Maloney said.

He said the 14th Amendment, giving equal protection and the right to due process under the law to all persons, would serve women as well.

Gov. John J. Gilligan, whose endorsement helped spring the proposal from a reluctant Senate Committee, says Ohio's ratification will give it "impetus" in other states considering it this year.

The amendment needs to be ratified by 38 states to become a part of the constitution. Seven others reportedly have it under consideration currently. The Senate Financial Institutions, Insurance, & Elections Committee voted twice last summer to scrap the controversial proposal, due largely to a position against it at that time by leaders of the million-member Ohio AFL-CIO.

However, the big labor federation's national convention later in 1973 at Miami Beach endorsed the ERA, and the state organization then lined up behind it. The committee finally recommended passage 6-2.

In other developments, battle lines were drawn Wednesday on a proposed May 7 ballot proposal that would allow the legislature to tax recreational lands in Ohio on the basis of their use instead of their current market value. Voters approved a similar proposal for farm lands last Nov. 6.

The recreational proposal, if approved, would empower the legislature to set lower property tax rates for golf courses, camp grounds, swimming areas, and other lands used "exclusively" for recreational purposes.

In routine floor action, the House approved and sent to the Senate by lopsided votes three bills that clarify language in laws prohibiting possession of an opened container of liquor on the premises of a permit holder, increasing fees for witnesses who testify in civil cases from $3 to $12 a day, and requiring interstate haulers to furnish copies of their Interstate Commerce Commission permits to the Public Utilities Commission.

Senators added their approval to a House bill that permits waiving of a four-year statute of limitations on the collections of use and sales taxes. They passed and sent to the House a measure permitting common pleas courts to raise court costs that result from computerized research services.

Eleven new bills were introduced in the two chambers. Among them were proposals to:

—Require the State Lottery Commission to rescind its decision to locate in Cleveland and establish its state headquarters in Columbus.

—Require all law enforcement officers in the state to be at least 21 years of age.

—Grant special parking privileges to certain disabled persons.

—Require screening of automobile junk yards along primary highways near municipalities.

—Put employees of the Ohio Industrial Commission under civil service.

Truckers, Government Hammer Out Agreement

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

Representatives of striking independent truckers say they will recommend acceptance of a tentative agreement reached early today in efforts to end the violence-plagued shutdown that began eight days ago.

They said it may take at least 48 hours or more before the agreement hammered out with government negotiators in Washington is ratified. They urged drivers in the meantime to stay home and refrain from further violence.

Details of the agreement were not immediately disclosed, but government officials said the Interstate Commerce Commission would announce later today approval for a temporary surcharge that would allow the truckers to raise their rates.

The truckers have asked for cut-backs in the price of diesel fuel, higher freight rates and permission to pass their increased costs along to shippers on a dollar to dollar basis. On Tuesday they rejected as a measure insufficient to end the strike President Nixon's immediate freeze on diesel fuel prices.

After the six-hour bargaining session which broke up shortly after 5 a.m. EDT, government negotiators gave full assurance that truck stops would have all the fuel they need. Additional measures were to be announced later today.

Meanwhile, stretches of the nation's highways were under heavy guard as violence spread prior to announcement of the tentative settlement. Extra police patrols were ordered at critical areas in 10 states and National Guard units were on duty in seven states.

The shutdown has left at least 100,000 persons out of work and some regions dangerously short of critical supplies. The automobile and coal mining industries began to feel the pinch, and gasoline supplies in some areas were nearly depleted. Meat was being flown to some areas in the Northeast, and an increase in rail traffic by food shippers was reported.

But officials in the Northeast said a combination of the strike and panic buying by consumers could soon deplete supplies of produce and meat if the shutdown continues through the weekend.

Prices for available meat and produce in the area were going up.

Governors in many of the more than 40 affected states deplored the "guerrilla warfare" tactics evident Wednesday in some areas.

Dozens of fistfights were reported between nonstriking Teamsters and independents in Pennsylvania. Police said a truck was shot in the leg Wednesday night in Texas. Someone attempted to dynamite a bridge on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, at least 10 states reported scattered shootings and rock throwings, and Pittsburgh police said 50 men broke into the headquarters of a steel haulers' group and attempted to start a fire.

Of the 100,000 persons out of work, one-fourth were in Ohio. Six coal mines in West Virginia closed Wednesday for lack of supplies, and officials said 2,000 miners could not get to work because they had no gasoline. Other Appalachian mines were reported near closing.

Armed National Guardsmen were escorting gasoline tankers into northern West Virginia. The tanker drivers were defying picket lines set up at the Pennsylvania state line.

Guardsmen were to begin similar duty today in western Maryland, where dairy farmers reportedly have dumped milk because they cannot truck it out.

The auto industry reported 26,000 persons either laid off or on short shifts.

Group Frees 4 Hostages

KUWAIT (AP) — Guerrilla gunmen freed four of their hostages from the Japanese Embassy today, and Interior and Defense Minister Sheikh Saad el-Abdullah said it was possible the siege would end tonight.

He said he had "been in touch with the leader of the gunmen and obtained a pledge that no harm will befall the hostages."

But the government still refused to let four pro-Arab terrorists from Singapore land on its territory.

The terrorists who seized the embassy on Wednesday claimed they were holding "more than 20" Japanese and Arabs. They vowed to blow up the hostages and themselves unless the Singapore terrorists and their hostages were flown to Kuwait.

A special Japan Air Lines plane arrived in Singapore early today to pick up the group, but the Kuwait government said it would not let the plane land "to avoid further complications." It also refused to send food into the embassy.

The Japanese Foreign Ministry said it had tried "again and again" to get the Kuwaitis to change but they were adamant.

Kuwaiti authorities estimated there were three to nine guerrillas in the embassy, including a woman. They were believed to be Arabs and Japanese. Police and troops surrounded the office building in which the embassy occupies two upper floors.

The Japanese Foreign Ministry said the hostages included Ambassador Ryoko Ishikawa, the embassy's first, second and third secretaries, an attache and a local Japanese employee.

The Singapore gunmen, two Japanese and two Arabs, have been holed up on a ferry boat in Singapore harbor for a week since they failed in an attempt to blow up a Shell oil refinery. They are holding three men of the ferry crew, all Singaporeans.

They had been demanding a plane to fly to an unspecified Arab country, but the Japanese government had said it could not find an Arab country that would accept them.

The terrorist squads in both Singapore and Kuwait said their members belonged to the Japanese Red Army and the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. The group in Kuwait said it also included members of the Sons of Palestine, another radical group.

Tens of thousands of Ohio workers have been idled because of the pinch on industry caused by the truckers' strike, and more layoffs are in prospect if the strike is not ended.

The Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development said Wednesday 25,000 job layoffs now have been blamed on the strike.

Meanwhile, there were scattered incidents of violence and vandalism, and the Ohio National Guard beefed up its force patrolling the highways from 1,000 to 1,500.

The Ohio Highway Patrol says the total number of arrests in connection with the truckers' protest has risen to 300.

Two tractor-trailer rigs owned by Motor Express Inc. were gutted by fire at the company's terminal in Howland Township near Warren.

In Youngstown, fire caused an estimated $1,000 damage to truck trailers parked at the J.W. Jones & Co. terminal.

Mahoning County sheriff's deputies sealed off the big Penn-Ohio Truck Stop on Ohio 7 near Youngstown Wednesday night and burned a shack that had been used as a headquarters by the strikers.

Deputies said two strike leaders were arrested.

Sheriff Ray T. Davis said the problems started when deputies went to the truck stop to escort a trucker who wanted to drive his rig out.

He said the strikers shouted obscenities and two of them climbed up on several trucks and uncoupled trailers.

The sheriff's department said one truck rolled into a building, causing damage estimated at several thousand dollars.

The owner of the truck stop, Joseph Daltorio, said he had agreed to allow the strikers to use his property if they did not cause trouble. He said after the vandalism occurred he asked deputies to destroy the shack and remove about 65 parked trucks.

Arrested were Harold Calvin, 56, of Poland, and Paul Witmer, 40, of New Springfield. They were charged with criminal mischief, criminal trespass and failure to disperse.

Weather

Cloudy with slight chance of freezing drizzle today, clearing by the afternoon. High near 30. Clear tonight, low near 15. Sunny Friday, high, low 30s. Little, if any, precipitation through Sunday with a slight warming trend. Temperatures Wednesday were: high, 42; low, 23.

In Dover, police said four persons were arrested for questioning in connection with a shooting incident involving a gasoline tank truck.

Police said the four were arrested shortly after a tank truck was fired at while emptying gasoline at a station near Dover.

In Lorain County, Robert Weitzel of Oberlin, vice president of the Lorain County chapter of the Owner-Drivers Club of Ohio, was arrested with two other men on disorderly conduct charges for allegedly blocking a Sohio bulk plant.

National Guard Lt. Col. Robert P. Copeland said his men have had no confrontations with striking truckers but several guardsmen have "loaned their support" to highway patrolmen investigating trouble reports.

He said the men are carrying riot sticks.

Ohio Overflows With Heating Oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite the energy crisis, Ohio has home heating fuel "coming out its ears," an oil industry spokesman told the House Select Committee on Energy Wednesday night.

Roger Dreyer, executive vice president of the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association, said home heating fuels have "backed up" because of Ohio's unseasonably warm winter weather combined with consumer conservation efforts.

He said the state can expect a cut of about 15 per cent in gasoline supplies during the next 12 months, but predicted it can be absorbed without problems "except in the displacement of some products that could affect tourism."

Dreyer said he thinks Gov. John Gilligan's emergency energy bill will not be needed because the federal government has "pre-empted" the state in the energy field.

Dreyer said he understands that Federal Energy Administrator William Simon plans to order changes in the use of crude oil to produce more gasoline—as opposed to recent emphasis on home heating fuels.

"But I don't know what's happening. I plan to wire him tomorrow and ask him," the OPMA official admitted.

He said he regrets Gilligan's energy bill, which creates "a super energy board and an energy czar," as a monumental case of overkill. It's like using an elephant gun to shoot a flea."

He added: "I don't want to mislead you. There is an energy crisis. Every barrel of crude oil in this country has been allocated." He said even if the industry is required to produce more gasoline now, he doesn't know where the industry will put it.

"We've got all the tanks full of heating fuel," he said.

In response to other questions, Dreyer said the state government, itself, has all the information it needs from tax reports on the amount of gasoline sold in the state "dating all the way back to 1932."

He said he could not say at this time how many gallons are being stored in the state.

49 Candidates File For Statewide Offices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The deadline for filing passed, and the 49 candidates for state office were off and running today, some of them at a fast pace.

Challengers to Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and former Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican, lashed out at the opposition before they got out of Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's office, where they filed their petitions.

James Nolan of Cleveland, a Gilligan opponent, said he planned "a campaign of reaction" against Gilligan. "I'm going to raise hell from Lake Erie to the Ohio River," he said.

Nolan then sparred verbally with a United Press International reporter after he said the news agency had refused to accept his phoned-in statements.

"The wire services and the news media will be as much an issue in the campaign as Gov. Gilligan," he said. Nolan said he had similar trouble earlier with the AP.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-75 Springfield, also lashed out at Rhodes, whom he said many rank-and-file Republicans didn't want this year.

"I don't think in this year of Watergate, he can be sold to Republicans," Fry said. "If he can't appeal to Republicans, how can he win in the general election?"

A total of 49 candidates filed for staff offices, nine Democrats filing for secretary of state and six for lieutenant governor.

Gilligan got another two opponents in addition to Nolan, Ohio Ku Klux Klan Grand Dragon Dale R. Reusch of Cleveland and Donald E. Dillon of Zanesville, a write-in hopeful.

In the Republican primary, Rhodes will be challenged by Fry and Bert Dawson of East Liverpool, the Columbiana County engineer.

Two announced candidates didn't file—State Rep. Robert W. Jaskulski, D-11 Garfield Heights, Democrat for secretary of state, and Richard Boyland of Cleveland, Republican for attorney general.

In the U.S. Senate race, appointed incumbent Howard M. Metzger will face ex-astronaut John Glenn and Emma Fundaburk, a Bowling Green professor, in the Democratic primary.

On the Republican side, Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk will face Peter E. Voss of Canton. In addition, three hopefuls will be running as independents.

ROUNDTOWN

FAITH in humanity was restored Wednesday afternoon at the local police department when Fred Pence, 369 E. Corwin St., walked up to the desk sergeant with a billfold in hand. . . . He said he had found the wallet in the parking lot at the Lancaster Pike Shopping Center. . . .

A check of the wallet, which belonged to a Circleville resident, turned up $140 in cash. . . . Police turned the billfold over to the proper owner who stated he would see that Pence received a reward for his honesty.

49 Candidates File For Statewide Offices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The deadline for filing passed, and the 49 candidates for state office were off and running today, some of them at a fast pace.

Challengers to Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and former Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican, lashed out at the opposition before they got out of Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's office, where they filed their petitions.

James Nolan of Cleveland, a Gilligan opponent, said he planned "a campaign of reaction" against Gilligan. "I'm going to raise hell from Lake Erie to the Ohio River," he said.

Nolan then sparred verbally with a United Press International reporter after he said the news agency had refused to accept his phoned in statements.

"The wire services and the news media will be as much an issue in the campaign as Gov. Gilligan," he said. Nolan said he had similar trouble earlier with the AP.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-75 Springfield, also lashed out at Rhodes, whom he said many rank-and-file Republicans didn't want this year.

"I don't think in this year of Watergate, he can be sold to Republicans," Fry said. "If he can't appeal to Republicans, how can he win in the general election?"

A total of 49 candidates filed for staff offices, nine Democrats filing for secretary of state and six for lieutenant governor.

Gilligan got another two opponents in addition to Nolan, Ohio Ku Klux Klan Grand Dragon Dale R. Reusch of Cleveland and Donald E. Dillon of Zanesville, a write-in hopeful.

In the Republican primary, Rhodes will be challenged by Fry and Bert Dawson of East Liverpool, the Columbiana County engineer.

Two announced candidates didn't file—State Rep. Robert W. Jaskulski, D-11 Garfield Heights, Democrat for

The Pickaway County Board of Elections today announced there will be no contested races for county offices at the May primary election except for a few party committeemen positions.

U.S., Panama Give Push To Canal Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama are moving to remove the major irritant in their relationship by signing a declaration of negotiating principles for a new Panama Canal treaty.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will be in Panama for today's signing ceremony and to consult with strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos and Foreign Minister Juan A. Tack.

In addition, the American official was to deliver a speech to mark what the Nixon administration hopes will be the beginning of a new and improved phase in inter-American relations.

Kissinger's trip, brief as it is, marks the first of what may be a series of high-level visits to Latin America by the secretary and perhaps President Nixon.

U.S. officials recognize that such trips will not be enough. There have to be concrete examples that move beyond expressions of good intentions, and that is what today's ceremony is about.

Kissinger, Tack and Torrijos have not agreed to a new treaty. The document only outlines the main area of negotiations.

However, the treaty should be completed within a year, U.S. officials say, which means the two countries have moved a great distance since relations were broken off ten years ago and anti-U.S. violence was common in Panama.

Relations have been strained almost from the beginning when in 1903 the United States supported Panamanian independence from Colombia.

Emergency Energy Bill Faces Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate once again is taking up the much-debated emergency energy bill, with this version containing an oil price rollback opposed by the administration.

Prospects for quick action when the legislation comes to the Senate floor today appear slim. The floor manager for the bill, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "I'm anticipating trouble."

The bill approved Wednesday by a Senate-House conference committee also would give President Nixon authority to order gasoline rationing and other mandatory fuel-saving measures.

Republicans and White House lobbyists stopped short of predicting a filibuster but clearly indicated they would move to prevent final action before Congress begins the Lincoln Day recess on Friday.

Opposition to the bill centers around the proposed oil price rollback. Jackson has estimated the rollback would cut the pump price of gasoline by four cents a gallon, but federal energy chief William E. Simon has called it "unworkable."

The provision, which would affect roughly one-quarter of the oil produced in the United States, was adopted by the conferees. The Senate had sent the bill back to conference to remove language designed to limit oil company profits.

Meanwhile, Amerada Hess Corp., the nation's 18th largest oil company, reported its operating earnings in 1973 rose 278 per cent over their 1972 levels. Fourth-quarter profits were 578 per cent higher than last year, the company said.

Maryland became the fourth state to turn to gasoline rationing in an attempt to ease gasoline shortages and long lines at service stations. The plan will follow the odd-even license plate rationing system already in effect in Oregon and Hawaii and due to go into effect Monday in Massachusetts.

Candidates File For Primary

The Pickaway County Board of Elections today announced there will be no contested races for county offices at the May primary election except for a few party committeemen positions.

Filing petitions before the deadline were Margaret H. Remy, Route 1, New Holland, Democrat, auditor; Ned H. Dresbach, Route 5, Republican, auditor; Donald E. Strous, Route 2, Laurelville, Democrat, commissioner; Wayne Hines, Route 1, Ashville, Republican, commissioner.

Candidates for offices involving more than one county — state representative, U. S. representative, judge of the court of appeals, district committeemen, state senator—must file in the most populous county in the district.

The counties then must notify local boards of election by Feb. 21.

The Pickaway County Board of Elections reminded candidates that the Ohio Ethics Commission at its initial meeting Jan. 15 extended the filing date for the financial disclosure statement for all candidates seeking election in the May primary to March 1.

The disclosure forms were approved at the Ohio Ethics Commission meeting of Jan. 29 and are presently in

U.S., Panama Give Push To Canal Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama are moving to remove the major irritant in their relationship by signing a declaration of negotiating principles for a new Panama Canal treaty.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will be in Panama for today's signing ceremony and to consult with strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos and Foreign Minister Juan A. Tack.

In addition, the American official was to deliver a speech to mark what the Nixon administration hopes will be the beginning of a new and improved phase in inter-American relations.

Kissinger's trip, brief as it is, marks the first of what may be a series of high-level visits to Latin America by the secretary and perhaps President Nixon.

U.S. officials recognize that such trips will not be enough. There have to be concrete examples that move beyond expressions of good intentions, and that is what today's ceremony is about.

Kissinger, Tack and Torrijos have not agreed to a new treaty. The document only outlines the main area of negotiations.

However, the treaty should be completed within a year, U.S. officials say, which means the two countries have moved a great distance since relations were broken off ten years ago and anti-U.S. violence was common in Panama.

Relations have been strained almost from the beginning when in 1903 the United States supported Panamanian independence from Colombia.

Emergency Energy Bill Faces Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate once again is taking up the much-debated emergency energy bill, with this version containing an oil price rollback opposed by the administration.

Prospects for quick action when the legislation comes to the Senate floor today appear slim. The floor manager for the bill, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said, "I'm anticipating trouble."

The bill approved Wednesday by a Senate-House conference committee also would give President Nixon authority to order gasoline rationing and other mandatory fuel-saving measures.

Republicans and White House lobbyists stopped short of predicting a filibuster but clearly indicated they would move to prevent final action before Congress begins the Lincoln Day recess on Friday.

Opposition to the bill centers around the proposed oil price rollback. Jackson has estimated the rollback would cut the pump price of gasoline by four cents a gallon, but federal energy chief William E. Simon has called it "unworkable."

The provision, which would affect roughly one-quarter of the oil produced in the United States, was adopted by the conferees. The Senate had sent the bill back to conference to remove language designed to limit oil company profits.

Meanwhile, Amerasia Hess Corp., the nation's 18th largest oil company, reported its operating earnings in 1973 rose 278 per cent over their 1972 levels. Fourth-quarter profits were 578 per cent higher than last year, the company said.

Maryland became the fourth state to turn to gasoline rationing in an attempt to ease gasoline shortages and long lines at service stations. The plan will follow the odd-even license plate rationing system already in effect in Oregon and Hawaii and due to go into effect Monday in Massachusetts.

A spokesman for the Federal Energy

Office said differences in gasoline supplies among the states this month may be only temporary.

Those depending most heavily on Arab oil have had their supplies cut by the Arab oil embargo, while those depending more on domestic oil have suffered mild shortages, he said.

The spokesmen said the differences should tend to disappear in March as government allocations of fuel among the states equalize things. The allocations begin this month.

A Page Of Opinion

Food Of The Future

What will happen when the world's food supplies are exhausted? This is a question scientists are asking more and more frequently as populations continue to gain, farm land continues to be eaten up by urban development and food production per capita continues to diminish.

Scientists are looking into the possibilities of eating bacteria, microorganisms and yeast to a greater extent, as unappetizing as such sources may seem. After all, man's appetite for the more delectable items is bound to reduce the supply of high-on-the-hog foods first.

This, according to those who see great futures for such repasts, is a natural path of the quest for food to take because the little beasts are much more efficient than their larger brethren in developing proteins and other human necessities.

Yeast is expected to develop into one of the more important foods of the future because of its amazing capacity for protein production. But such delicacies can hardly replace the savor of a choice cut of beef. Diners of the future will have legitimate cause for moaning about the good old days.

Thoroughly Maddened Millie

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Amateur film critic I know, named Millie, is riled by a new cop caper "The Laughing Policeman." She says it's no laughing matter, should be relegated to that eternal celluloid cesspool where reside (or soon will reside) "Deep Throat," "The Devil in Miss Jones," and "The Exorcist." As far as children are concerned, that is.

Millie's complaint is not routinely blue-nosed. She, along with much of the ever-diminishing multitudes of movie-goers, can take most of the Anglo-Saxon words that spill off the soundtracks. She found Paramount's "Serpico," starring Al Pacino as an off-beat New York cop (the nut wouldn't take a bribe!) to be as engrossing as that most professional critic, Judith Crist, found it: "Best Picture of the Year." It moves with all the speed of "The French Connection," makes a point, resorts to obscenities only when only obscenities could suffice.

Hard to believe that David O. Selznick had to threaten to resign from the Motion Picture Association of America unless Clark Gable could say "Damn" or was it "Hell"?—in the final line of "Gone with the Wind."

Getting back to Millie, she writes: "Not long ago I read a fascinating murder-mystery written by a Swedish pair, Maj Sjöwall and Per Wahloo called 'The Laughing Policeman.' The locale was Stockholm. It was the story of a madman who runs amok on a bus and kills all the passengers, including the detective who was tailing him for a previous crime. The task then falls on the dead detective's partner . . . and everything turns out tidy."

"Well, I saw the ad for the movie version of the book and rushed off to take it in. Damn! The locale is now San Francisco. Lots of new characters in the script: naked dancing by homosexuals, peep-shows, gay bars, gallons of red paint 'blood,' a little girl crying out for sex in the most explicit language, and a general air of filth beyond comprehension. It reminded me of the old story that somebody threw a stench bomb into Minsky's one matinee and nobody noticed it until the show was over."

"But here's my real kick. Sitting next to me at 'The Laughing Policeman' was a girl who couldn't have been more than 16 or 17, and two little kids about seven or eight. I was embarrassed having them next to me, hearing all that rotten language and seeing all that violence. It was hard to believe that they had been let into the theater in the first place."

"When I left abruptly, I stopped by the ticket booth and asked the nice looking middle-aged woman behind the grill if this was an 'R-rated' movie, meaning restricted to age groups. She said it certainly is."

"I asked, 'Then why did you let two little kids come in?'"

"The girl with them told me she was their mother," the dear lady said with a sigh. "I explained that the picture was full of foul language, violence, and so forth. But she said she didn't care; she wanted to see it and have the children with her. What could I do?"

"There should be a law that deters even a mother—if that girl was, indeed—to bring along little children and subject them to such movies as 'The Laughing Policeman,' which can't have anything but a bad and even psychotic effect on young minds."

The Hon. Robert Moses, who built much of New York and is generally proud of it, has a beef:

"I have had somewhat more leisure for games recently," our most omniscient octogenarian writes. "I sleep less and resort to broadcasts more. So here's my question: 70,000 attend a Super Bowl, but 70,000,000 at home have their eyes and ears glued to television. If this is a democracy, we have certain majority rights. As we sit in our easy chairs by the TV, a mug of beer or a glass of Red Breast or Buffalo Grass Vodka at hand, watching a most ingenious and lavish football production, why must we put up with the maddening dialogues of platoons of back-slapping commentators—couches in fractured journalese—pouring statistics and gossip on us when all we want is to see the game and occasionally look to the bulletins for the bare facts? Riddle me this: Do the fans really want all this expertise, editorializing and dialogue? What would a poll show? Maybe what we have developed is just what the fans ordered. If so, the rest of us will be driven to the horrors, Westerns, porn, corn and other sensations."

Editor in our office had a time the other snowy morning: bus late, train late, streets a mess, umbrella flew inside out, got soaked, splashed by cab, office elevators on blink, walked up, called home to reassure wife, strange voice answered, "The number you have dialed (and the operator's voice ticked off editor's number digit by digit) is not in service. Please check your directory." Tried again. Same rebuff. Decided not to go home after work. Didn't want to take a chance that it would not be there when-if he got there. Keeps mumbling incoherently.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

After reading the article in Tuesday's paper on the real trucker demands I felt I had to write and give you a trucker's point of view.

Fuel prices — The price of fuel has doubled in the past year, whereas freight rates have stayed the same year after year. My husband hauled salt in January out of Cleveland to Dayton and the rate was the same as it was in 1958.

Speed limits — It is a proven fact that a truck traveling at 60 miles per hour in hilly areas will consume less fuel than a truck traveling 55 miles per hour.

Weight limits — Weight limits should not have to be changed if the speed limits were changed.

Fuel supplies — Fuel supplies were bad two months ago and are getting worse every day. Five dollars worth of fuel will not get a truck very far down the road. Not to mention the loss of time to the drivers.

Pass Along — If a merchant's rent goes up on his store he will pass the increase along to his customers by increasing the prices on his items, so why can't a trucker pass his increase on to the consumer.

The average cost of a semi rig is from $25,000 to $30,000. The average cost per mile for fuel and oil will exceed 13 cents per mile.

Add to this licensing fees, tire wear and repair, axle tax, monthly truck payments, insurance, brokers commission and natural depreciation on equipment. You would think truck owners would be allowed to make at least a modest living.

When a railroad goes broke our government will subsidize them for millions of dollars.

What does a trucker have to look forward to if he goes broke.

Inventors Day Slated For Feb. 11

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody knows that Tom Edison invented the electric lightbulb and the phonograph but....

How many know that Hedy Lamarr, the movie actress, holds a patent as coinventor of a complex communications system designed to direct torpedoes at moving ship targets?

Or that Mrs. Richard Rodgers, wife of the composer, invented the "Johnny Mop," a device for cleaning toilet bowls?

Or that actress Lillian Russell patented a dresser-trunk in 1912?

Well, the U.S. Patent Office can vouch for their credentials. And, if you want to tip your hat to them — and to earners of nearly 4 million other American patents since the birth of the Republic — you can do so on Feb. 11, the second annual National Inventors' Day.

Coincident with Thomas A. Edison's birthday, that's the date set aside by Congress last year to honor "the important role played by inventors in promoting progress in the useful arts and in recognition of the invaluable contribution of inventors to the welfare of our people."

Thirty-one years of trudging up and down Circleville streets in the interest of law and order were behind him as Thomas McManamy, dean of Circleville's police force in years of service, became day desk officer. The position was created for him by Mayor W. B. Cady with approval of council.

The veteran policeman, always a friend of youth, was removed from his difficult night job as his 74th birthday neared. He had worked the "Red Light" district and the Canal area but had used his revolver only once in his entire career.

Hulse Hays, N. Court St., received notice of his confirmation as postmaster for Circleville. His name had been sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt.

Meetings to instruct foreman and supervisors on Civil Works projects were held in Memorial Hall with an instructor from the state Red Cross headquarters in charge.

Denny Pickens, proprietor of Picken's Restaurant, 116 S. Court St., received the first license in the city to serve, at retail, spirituous wines and liquors by the glass.

Richard Arlen and Judith Allen in "Hell and High Water" was the feature at the Cliftona Theatre.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have tried everything for arthritis of the hands and knees. I get some relief with large amounts of aspirin, but I would like to try acupuncture. My doctor won't hear of it. Can you recommend a place where I can have this done?

Mr. H. G., Calif.

Dear Mr. G.:

Acupuncture has emerged from what was considered in America a fanciful idea to a very real contender for a place in medical therapeutics.

For decades, the ecstatic reports from China were completely disavowed by American scientists. Today there is a distinct upsurge in interest in this approach to many practical problems.

The National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., one of the great federal health complexes, has established a study in an effort to find a definitive answer to the value of acupuncture. Undoubtedly, the scientific mysteries will yield to such well-controlled studies.

While this investigation is going on, clusters of "acupuncture specialists" are cropping up all over the country, most of them totally unqualified and inadequately trained for this highly technical work.

These groups parasitically thrive on the fears and the hopes of people who flock to them seeking magical cures.

One of the great dangers that emerges is that some people with serious problems have delayed getting medical and surgical treatment until serious complications occur.

There are a number of reputable, well-trained specialists in acupuncture who work under hospital or university jurisdiction. You can inquire through the American Medical Association and your local County Medical Society where these specialists practice.

After doing this, consultation and a reasonable series of treatments with acupuncture might well bring you psychological benefits and possibly physical benefits as well.

There are many varied types of arthritis that yield to modern orthodox forms of treatment. It would be most inadvisable for sufferers of arthritis to give up these accepted methods, in their anxiety and impatience, for a yet unproven method of treatment.

Remember that another person's enthusiasm for his "acupuncture cure" may have no scientific validity.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It takes 10 pounds of feed to produce one pound of cattle flesh. Hogs can be raised on a 4-1 ratio, poultry at the rate of 2.5 pounds of feed for each pound of flesh.

But fish, because of advances in the science of aquaculture, or fish farming, can now be raised on a 1.5-1 ratio, making them the most efficient converters of animal feed to human food.

Advances such as this bode well for some of the world's underdeveloped, protein-poor nations, especially if they can be trained in the latest techniques. In fact, it offers hope for all people.

As food prices rise, the efficiency of fish physiology is increasingly appreciated by the world's populations. Fish consumption is rising. In the United States it jumped from 10.6 pounds in 1967 to 12.2 in 1972.

The problem, however, is that there is also a growing shortage of fish. Some species, such as haddock, are nearly fished out in some areas. More are likely to suffer the same fate.

With aquaculture, however, there appears to be no limit on supply. The environment is controlled and the fish are brought to maturity on a regular schedule. Nothing is unexpected.

Well over 60,000 acres, mainly in Mississippi, now are given over to raising catfish in ponds. Trout are farmed in Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Montana and Idaho. Salmon are raised on the Washington coast.

The yields from these artificial environments are almost beyond comprehension.

In pond culture, which has been used for 3,000 years, 2,500 pounds of catfish can be raised on an acre. The art still is rather primitive: the pond is stocked, the fish grow, the fish are netted.

Trout culture now uses water raceways instead of ponds, thus increasing the flow of oxygen to the fish and raising production to what once seemed an incredible total of about 100,000 pounds of fish per acre.

In the past few years, however, a small but innovative company, Marine Protein Corp., developed a system of growing trout in deep silos and achieved production that recalls the parable of the loaves and the fish. It claims to be able to produce more than one million pounds per surface acre.

Keen Buss, vice president, general manager and operator of the company's Millheim, Pa., research laboratory, estimates the density at about one pound of fish per gallon of water.

The fish, all descended from superior strains, live in a spring water environment through which oxygen is forced. The fish obtain nourishment by tripping a feeder.

The silos are cleaned automatically with settling tanks and vacuum pumps. And when harvest time comes the fish are quickly sucked up by a fish pump, which has obvious advantages over the nets used in pond culture.

Marine Protein now has a 36-silo facility at Mammoth Springs, Ark., and is developing another near the Snake River in Idaho, both areas chosen because the ideal temperatures and flows of natural springs.

Despite the enormous advances in efficiency, aquaculture may not as yet be especially profitable. Marine Protein hasn't netted anything in its four years, all its income and a lot more besides being needed for research and development.

Nat Herman, the president, believes the company will turn the corner in the fourth quarter and be in the black for 1975, when more facilities will be on stream and foreign licenses are sold.

Mrs. Priest To Retire

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ivy Baker Priest is retiring from the money game after 16 years of motherly guardianship over billions of taxpayer dollars.

The 67-year-old Mrs. Priest announced Wednesday that she would not seek a third term as California state treasurer.

In a two-page statement released by her office, she said, "Persistent health problems during the past year and family considerations have brought me to this very important decision."

As Treasurer of the United States for eight years under President Dwight D. Eisenhower, her neat, precise signature appeared on $63 billion worth of currency.

As state treasurer for the past eight years, she has overseen the investment of further billions and is the official watchdog over $10 billion of negotiable securities housed in the Capitol vault.

A Page Of Opinion

Food Of The Future

What will happen when the world's food supplies are exhausted? This is a question scientists are asking more and more frequently as populations continue to gain, farm land continues to be eaten up by urban development and food production per capita continues to diminish.

Scientists are looking into the possibilities of eating bacteria, microorganisms and yeast to a greater extent, as unappetizing as such sources may seem. After all, man's appetite for the more delectable items is bound to reduce the supply of high-on-the-hog foods first.

This, according to those who see great futures for such repasts, is a natural path of the quest for food to take because the little beasts are much more efficient than their larger brethren in developing proteins and other human necessities.

Yeast is expected to develop into one of the more important foods of the future because of its amazing capacity for protein production. But such delicacies can hardly replace the savor of a choice cut of beef. Diners of the future will have legitimate cause for moaning about the good old days.

Thoroughly Maddened Millie

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Amateur film critic I know, named Millie, is riled by a new cop caper "The Laughing Policeman." She says it's no laughing matter, should be relegated to that eternal celluloid cesspool where reside (or soon will reside) "Deep Throat," "The Devil in Miss Jones," and "The Exorcist." As far as children are concerned, that is.

Millie's complaint is not routinely blue-nosed. She, along with much of the ever-diminishing multitudes of movie-goers, can take most of the Anglo-Saxon words that spill off the soundtracks. She found Paramount's "Serpico," starring Al Pacino as an off-beat New York cop (the nut wouldn't take a bribe!) to be as engrossing as that most professional critic, Judith Crist, found it: "Best Picture of the Year." It moves with all the speed of "The French Connection," makes a point, resorts to obscenities only when only obscenities could suffice.

Hard to believe that David O. Selznick had to threaten to resign from the Motion Picture Association of America unless Clark Gable could say "Damn!" or was it "Hell!"—in the final line of "Gone with the Wind."

Getting back to Millie, she writes: "Not long ago I read a fascinating murder-mystery written by a Swedish pair, Maj Sjöwall and Per Wahloo called 'The Laughing Policeman.' The locale was Stockholm. It was the story of a madman who runs amok on a bus and kills all the passengers, including the detective who was tailing him for a previous crime. The task then falls on the dead detective's partner . . . and everything turns out tidy."

"Well, I saw the ad for the movie version of the book and rushed off to take it in. Damn! The locale is now San Francisco. Lots of new characters in the script: naked dancing by homosexuals, peep-shows, gay bars, gallons of red paint 'blood,' a little girl crying out for sex in the most explicit language, and a general air of filth beyond comprehension. It reminded me of the old story that somebody threw a stench bomb into Minsky's one matinee and nobody noticed it until the show was over."

"But here's my real kick. Sitting next to me at 'The Laughing Policeman' was a girl who couldn't have been more than 16 or 17, and two little kids about seven or eight. I was embarrassed having them next to me, hearing all that rotten language and seeing all that violence. It was hard to believe that they had been let into the theater in the first place."

"When I left abruptly, I stopped by the ticket booth and asked the nice looking middle-aged woman behind the grill if this was an 'R-rated' movie, meaning restricted to age groups. She said it certainly is."

"I asked, 'Then why did you let two little kids come in?'"

"The girl with them told me she was their mother," the dear lady said with a sigh. "I explained that the picture was full of foul language, violence, and so forth. But she said she didn't care; she wanted to see it and have the children with her. What could I do?"

"There should be a law that deters even a mother—if that girl was, indeed—to bring along little children and subject them to such movies as 'The Laughing Policeman,' which can't have anything but a bad and even psychotic effect on young minds."

The Hon. Robert Moses, who built much of New York and is generally proud of it, has a beef:

"I have had somewhat more leisure for games recently," our most omniscient octogenarian writes. "I sleep less and resort to broadcasts more. So here's my question: 70,000 attend a Super Bowl, but 70,000,000 at home have their eyes and ears glued to television. If this is a democracy, we have certain majority rights. As we sit in our easy chairs by the TV, a mug of beer or a glass of Red Breast or Buffalo Grass Vodka at hand, watching a most ingenious and lavish football production, why must we put up with the maddening dialogues of platoons of back-slapping commentators—couching in fractured journalese—pouring statistics and gossip on us when all we want is to see the game and occasionally look to the bulletins for the bare facts? Riddle me this: Do the fans really want all this expertise, editorializing and dialogue? What would a poll show? Maybe what we have developed is just what the fans ordered. If so, the rest of us will be driven to the horrors, Westerns, porn, corn and other sensations."

Editor in our office had a time the other snowy morning: bus late, train late, streets a mess, umbrella flew inside out, got soaked, splashed by cab, office elevators on blink, walked up, called home to reassure wife, strange voice answered, "The number you have dialed (and the operator's voice ticked off editor's number digit by digit) is not in service. Please check your directory." Tried again. Same rebuff. Decided not to go home after work. Didn't want to take a chance that it would not be there when I got there. Keeps mumbling incoherently.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

After reading the article in Tuesday's paper on the real trucker demands I felt I had to write and give you a trucker's point of view.

Fuel prices — The price of fuel has doubled in the past year, whereas freight rates have stayed the same year after year. My husband hauled salt in January out of Cleveland to Dayton and the rate was the same as it was in 1958.

Speed limits — It is a proven fact that a truck traveling at 60 miles per hour in hilly areas will consume less fuel than a truck traveling 55 miles per hour.

Weight limits — Weight limits would not have to be changed if the speed limits were changed.

Fuel supplies — Fuel supplies were bad two months ago and are getting worse every day. Five dollars worth of fuel will not get a truck very far down the road. Not to mention the loss of time to the drivers.

Pass Along — If a merchant's rent goes up on his store he will pass the increase along to his customers by increasing the prices on his items, so why can't a trucker pass his increase on to the consumer.

The average cost of a semi rig is from $25,000 to $30,000. The average cost per mile for fuel and oil will exceed 13 cents per mile.

Add to this licensing fees, tire wear and repair, axle tax, monthly truck payments, insurance, brokers commission and natural depreciation on equipment. You would think truck owners would be allowed to make at least a modest living.

When a railroad goes broke our government will subsidize them for millions of dollars.

What does a trucker have to look forward to if he goes broke.

Inventors Day Slated For Feb. 11

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody knows that Tom Edison invented the electric lightbulb and the phonograph but....

How many know that Hedy Lamarr, the movie actress, holds a patent as coinventor of a complex communications system designed to direct torpedoes at moving ship targets?

Or that Mrs. Richard Rodgers, wife of the composer, invented the "Johnny Mop," a device for cleaning toilet bowls?

Or that actress Lillian Russell patented a dresser-trunk in 1912?

Well, the U.S. Patent Office can vouch for their credentials. And, if you want to tip your hat to them — and to earners of nearly 4 million other American patents since the birth of the Republic — you can do so on Feb. 11, the second annual National Inventors' Day.

Coincidentally with Thomas A. Edison's birthday, that's the date set aside by Congress last year to honor "the important role played by inventors in promoting progress in the useful arts and in recognition of the invaluable contribution of inventors to the welfare of our people."

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

One of the most ill-advised pieces of legislation passed by Congress last session has now proven to be one with tragic repercussions. I opposed the year-round daylight saving time proposals because it could not be established that any real energy savings could be achieved, but as sure as the sun rises, many problems and hazards would be created.

Throughout the debate on the daylight saving bill, no one could prove positively that any energy would be conserved. In fact, the most believable argument was the one likening the year-round daylight saving plan to the efforts of an old Indian who attempted to lengthen his blanket by cutting a piece off the top of it and sewing it on to the bottom. With year-round daylight saving time, what we are conserving in energy during the evening daylight hours, we are consuming over and above in the additional hours of darkness in the morning.

My primary concern is that with year-round daylight saving time, young children are seriously inconvenienced and endangered by having to walk to school or wait for their buses in the dark, cold hours of the early morning. Unfortunately, this fear is not unfounded and several children have been injured or killed enroute to school since year-round DST was enacted.

In Florida alone, during a three week period following enactment of the year-round DST, six children have been killed in accidents enroute to school in the morning. This is three times as many such fatalities for the same period in the previous year. We have also suffered our own tragedies in the Sixth District of this nature. These are horrible and needless losses caused by unwise legislation. On this basis alone, I have introduced legislation to repeal this ridiculous year-round DST before it causes any more senseless loss of life.

In addition, because of this hazard to school children, many parents are now driving their children to school or to the bus stop, using more gas than normal for such extra auto trips. In rural areas such as in the Sixth District, this problem is particularly acute. I, for one, do not blame them for their concern. Some areas have tried to combat the problem by delaying school openings to later on in the day, but this, too, has disruptive and energy wasting effects, especially for working parents. They cannot as easily and recklessly change their work

Judge Acquitted Over Hauling Of Guardianship

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Judge Robert Weaver is expected to resume his place on the municipal court bench here after being acquitted of four charges stemming from his handling of an estate and guardianship in 1972.

A Licking County Common Pleas Court jury found Weaver innocent Tuesday of two counts of embezzlement, one of larceny by trick and one of insufficient funds.

The case dated back to before Weaver became a judge. He stepped down from the bench under orders of the Ohio Supreme Court pending court disposition of the charges.

Weaver claimed the charges were political. But he admitted on the stand at his trial that he had used some of the money entrusted him to pay bills. His attorney argued the prosecution did not prove any criminal intent by Weaver.

Ex-VC Prisoner Named To Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip W. Manhard, freed last year as the highest-ranking civilian prisoner of the Viet Cong, has been nominated by President Nixon to be ambassador to Mauritius.

Manhard, 52, was nominated Tuesday to succeed William D. Brewer, now envoy to the Sudan.

Manhard was captured by the Viet Cong in 1968 when he was a senior American civilian adviser in the Hue region of South Vietnam.

schedules as others would juggle the clocks; consequently, they are forced to leave their young children at home alone or drive them to their destination.

For the farmer, changing the clocks in the middle of winter has also created many problems. With the sun rising so late in the morning, the farmer's work day is delayed, for he must wait for the sun to dry the dew before he can plow his fields. What complicates this for the farmer is that he must work later in the evening, long after most businesses servicing him are closed. Should his equipment break down or should he run out of supplies, he is simply out of luck. Because of earlier hours, thermostats have to be turned up earlier; lights are required an hour earlier; and those who drive to work often have to warm their cars up to defrost the windshields — all of which requires additional consumption of energy.

Certainly, we must make every effort to conserve energy, but year-round daylight saving is both ridiculous and disastrous. Whatever negligible returns in energy savings we might realize — and I seriously doubt that this is possible — they are extremely insignificant in terms of hazards to our children and disruption to work and family life. We have paid too high a price as it is for this kind of foolish legislation, and I will work to have it repealed before any more damage is done.

Simon Raps Rollback Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon has told congressional conferees that their rollback in oil prices would make continued production unprofitable for many oil companies.

But he declined to say whether he would recommend a presidential veto of the emergency energy bill to which the rollback amendment was added.

"The cost of the product is at a higher level than you rolled it back to," Simon said Tuesday.

The amendment approved Monday by the conferees would put the price of all domestic crude oil at $5.25 a barrel and prohibit that price from rising above a ceiling of $7.09 per barrel.

Simon told the conferees he "could live with" a price ceiling of $7.88 per barrel.

Simon, in a speech Tuesday, said his biggest problem in performing his job is credibility.

"This has been a year of great stress for governmental credibility. The fact is that the public is no longer willing to give public officials the benefit of the doubt," he told an audience at the National Press Club.

Meanwhile, Massachusetts became the third state to adopt gasoline rationing.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent announced the state will begin on Monday the gasoline rationing system already in effect in Oregon and Hawaii. Drivers of cars with odd-numbered plates may buy gasoline on odd-numbered days and those with even-numbered plates may buy the fuel on even-numbered days.

And gasoline prices continued to increase as two more major marketers posted hikes.

Gulf Oil Co. US boosted its prices 5.5 cents a gallon and Exxon Co. USA announced an increase of 3.5 cents.

The increases, attributed to higher crude oil costs, can be expected to show up on gasoline pumps in a matter of days.

Lottery Site 'Where People Are'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Northeastern Ohio members of the state Lottery Commission joined forces Tuesday to award Cleveland the headquarters of the new lottery.

"It's where the people are and where the lottery players are," said commission chairman and Cleveland businessman David Leahy.

"It's the best combination of all the necessary ingredients," said Cleveland City Councilwoman Mary Yates.

But it wasn't until commissioner Bernice MacKenzie of Canton switched her vote from Mansfield to Cleveland that the lakefront city received the necessary majority of the five-member commission.

"It's time we decided and got on with the business of the lottery," retorted Mrs. MacKenzie as she changed her vote after arguing vehemently in favor of the smaller, central Ohio city.

Neither commissioners Louis S. Goldman, who wanted Dayton, nor Cincinnati Richard S. Rust Jr., who preferred Columbus, would yield his choice.

After the vote, however, all commission members pledged to work for the good of the lottery no matter where it was located.

The vote came 10 months after voters authorized creation of a state-operated lottery. The commission last month heard bids from Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron, Mansfield and East Palestine, all seeking to locate lottery headquarters in their cities.

The headquarters was expected to generate between 100 and 200 state jobs.

"Cleveland is a games-of-chance oriented city," Leahy said. Twenty per cent of Ohio's population lives in the northeast corner, he noted, and Cleveland is close enough to Michigan and Pennsylvania to attract out-of-state wagers, he added.

He praised Cleveland as the third-ranking city in the United States for corporate headquarters, for its banks and computer processing facilities. He also noted construction of a new state office building begins there this year, providing "made to order" facilities.

"You'll have an environment of cooperation in Cleveland," Leahy said. "It's where the people are and where the lottery players are."

Goldman, a Dayton attorney, argued that Dayton has the lowest number of state employees among Ohio's major cities and has been hit hard by the energy crisis.

Mrs. MacKenzie said Mansfield, too, could benefit from lottery jobs. She noted the city's central location, just north of Columbus, and its lower than average wage, rental and construction rates.

Rust, a Cincinnati insurance executive, said the choice of Columbus would foster the image of "the people's lottery."

He said placing the lottery at the state capital would give it a central location, use of existing state facilities and close contact with state offices.

He noted that seven of eight states with lotteries have lottery headquarters located in their capital cities.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

One of the most ill-advised pieces of legislation passed by Congress last session has now proven to be one with tragic repercussions. I opposed the year-round daylight saving time proposals because it could not be established that any real energy savings could be achieved, but as sure as the sun rises, many problems and hazards would be created.

Throughout the debate on the daylight saving bill, no one could prove positively that any energy would be conserved. In fact, the most believable argument was the one likening the year-round daylight saving plan to the efforts of an old Indian who attempted to lengthen his blanket by cutting a piece off the top of it and sewing it on to the bottom. With year-round daylight saving time, what we are conserving in energy during the evening daylight hours, we are consuming over and above in the additional hours of darkness in the morning.

My primary concern is that with year-round daylight saving time, young children are seriously inconvenienced and endangered by having to walk to school or wait for their buses in the dark, cold hours of the early morning. Unfortunately, this fear is not unfounded and several children have been injured or killed enroute to school since year-round DST was enacted.

In Florida alone, during a three week period following enactment of the year-round DST, six children have been killed in accidents enroute to school in the morning. This is three times as many such fatalities for the same period in the previous year. We have also suffered our own tragedies in the Sixth District of this nature. These are horrible and needless losses caused by unwise legislation. On this basis alone, I have introduced legislation to repeal this ridiculous year-round DST before it causes any more senseless loss of life.

In addition, because of this hazard to school children, many parents are now driving their children to school or to the bus stop, using more gas than normal for such extra auto trips. In rural areas such as in the Sixth District, this problem is particularly acute. I, for one, do not blame them for their concern. Some areas have tried to combat the problem by delaying school openings to later on in the day, but this, too, has disruptive and energy wasting effects, especially for working parents. They cannot as easily and recklessly change their work

Judge Acquitted Over Hauling Of Guardianship

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Judge Robert Weaver is expected to resume his place on the municipal court bench here after being acquitted of four charges stemming from his handling of an estate and guardianship in 1972.

A Licking County Common Pleas Court jury found Weaver innocent Tuesday of two counts of embezzlement, one of larceny by trick and one of insufficient funds.

The case dated back to before Weaver became a judge. He stepped down from the bench under orders of the Ohio Supreme Court pending court disposition of the charges.

Weaver claimed the charges were political. But he admitted on the stand at his trial that he had used some of the money entrusted him to pay bills. His attorney argued the prosecution did not prove any criminal intent by Weaver.

Ex-VC Prisoner Named To Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip W. Manhard, freed last year as the highest-ranking civilian prisoner of the Viet Cong, has been nominated by President Nixon to be ambassador to Mauritius.

Manhard, 52, was nominated Tuesday to succeed William D. Brewer, now envoy to the Sudan.

Manhard was captured by the Viet Cong in 1968 when he was a senior American civilian adviser in the Hue region of South Vietnam.

schedules as others would juggle the clocks; consequently, they are forced to leave their young children at home alone or drive them to their destination.

For the farmer, changing the clocks in the middle of winter has also created many problems. With the sun rising so late in the morning, the farmer's work day is delayed, for he must wait for the sun to dry the dew before he can plow his fields. What complicates this for the farmer is that he must work later in the evening, long after most businesses servicing him are closed. Should his equipment break down or should he run out of supplies, he is simply out of luck. Because of earlier hours, thermostats have to be turned up earlier; lights are required an hour earlier; and those who drive to work often have to warm their cars up to defrost the windshields — all of which requires additional consumption of energy.

Certainly, we must make every effort to conserve energy, but year-round daylight saving is both ridiculous and disastrous. Whatever negligible returns in energy savings we might realize — and I seriously doubt that this is possible — they are extremely insignificant in terms of hazards to our children and disruption to work and family life. We have paid too high a price as it is for this kind of foolish legislation, and I will work to have it repealed before any more damage is done.

MR. AND MRS. CHRISTOPHER LEE MORGAN

Miss Janelle Thompson Christopher Morgan Wed

Trinity Lutheran Church of Circleville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Janelle Reese Thompson and Mr. Christopher Lee Morgan, 6:30 p.m., Jan. 26th.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner officiated the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Thompson, Route 2 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo D. Morgan, 497 E. Franklin St.

Red carnations in the altar vases, six white altar candles, a bouquet of red and white carnations on the piano and two small and one large candle, lighted by the couple signifying the union, decorated the church.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist and Mr. Dusty Rhoades, vocalist presented a program of nuptial selections. Included were "Wedding Song," "Wedding Benediction," "Sunrise - Sunset," and during the ceremony "Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white organza. Peau d'ange and chantilly lace embellished the empire bodice, high ruffled neckline and full Victorian sleeves. Scrolls of lace paneled the A-line skirt which swept softly to a chapel train.

A lace caplet trimmed in pearls framing the bride's face held her tiered elbow length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature and large carnations with loops of red velvet ribbon, ming fern and long white velvet streamers. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom and a gold bracelet from her maternal grandmother.

Maid of honor, Miss Debbie Dumm, wore a formal length forest green gown of Quiana and carried a crescent bouquet of candy striped carnations with long red velvet streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John D. Eitel III, Miss Debbie Payne and Miss Kathi Barkhurst. They wore formal length poppy red gowns of Quiana and carried crescent bouquets of candy striped carnations with long green velvet streamers. The attendants' shoulder length veils with matching ribbon were the color of their gowns. Pearl wedding bell necklaces worn by the attendants were gifts of the bride. Little Miss Marci Thompson, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a long forest green velvet gown with a poppy red sash. She carried a white basket of assorted flowers.

Master Kyle Wolfe carried the rings to the altar.

Mr. Willie Fannin was best man and ushers were Mr. Gary Thompson and Mr. Brad Thompson, brothers of the bride, and Mr. Larry Morgan, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a formal length gown of bittersweet in double knit with a long contrasting coat. Mrs. Morgan was attired in a formal length robin-egg blue double knit gown with a short matching jacket tied at midriff. Corsages for both mothers were of red carnations.

A reception in the Parish House immediately followed the ceremony. The wedding cake was topped with bride and groom figures and decorated with miniature red and pink roses. Large and miniature pink carnations and leather leaf fern encircled the cake and punch bowl on the white net over olive green table cloth.

Hostesses were Mrs. Brad Thompson, Mrs. Gary Thompson, Mrs. Larry Morgan, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Eddie Dumm, Mrs. Gene Hinton and Mrs. Gail Wolfe Jr. Miss Jodi Steele presided at the guest book.

For her going-away costume the bride wore a pants suit with a beige jacket, brown, beige and orange plaid slacks with a contrasting sweater and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Morgan is a graduate of Westfall High School and employed

Local Residents Involved In Lake Lands Dispute

A number of residents of Circleville and Pickaway County who own property in the Buckeye Lake area are members of the Buckeye Lake Waterfront Property Owners Assn.

The organization was formed to protect the rights of property owners who own real estate at the state canal lake.

Disputes have arisen from the casual approach taken by the state in recording titles and delineating boundaries when it constructed its system of canals and canal reservoirs early in the 19th century.

At Buckeye Lake the battle between the state and private owners has been in and out of court almost constantly this century. And the problem has become more complex for lake lands private owners since the State Lake Lands Administration was established in 1972. The office was established by the Ohio General Assembly to settle the thousands of century old property title disputes between the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and residents at six state canal lakes.

However, many landowners feel State Lake Lands Administration is not doing the job it was intended to do. That is the reason the waterfront property owners association was formed.

Persuasion Over Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has told Congress it plans to end most wage and price controls by April 30 and proposes to rely in large part on persuasion in helping to hold down prices.

To dubious senators who wondered if this would be enough, Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council said: "We ought not to underestimate the power of persuasion compared with the power to order people."

Dunlop said the administration wants authority to expand the Cost of Living Council into an umbrella agency that would coordinate economic policies of other government agencies.

It also would have authority to monitor anti-inflation commitments made by industries, to hold public hearings and require reports from the private sector on wage and price activities.

Dunlop and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told a Senate Banking Committee subcommittee Wednesday that the administration wants to maintain mandatory controls only over the health and petroleum industries after April 30, the date the present controls program will expire.

Shultz said the administration may propose continuing controls over one or two additional industries. Dunlop indicated to newsmen that the construction industry could be one of these.

But for all intents and purposes, the administration is proposing to terminate the 2½-year-old experiment with mandatory wage and price controls that started with a price freeze in August of 1971.

Death of the controls program apparently will be unlamented in Congress as well as in the administration. Not a single voice was raised in the subcommittee in favor of continuing them.

MR. AND MRS. CHRISTOPHER LEE MORGAN

Miss Janelle Thompson Christopher Morgan Wed

Trinity Lutheran Church of Circleville was the setting for the wedding of Miss Janelle Roes Thompson and Mr. Christopher Lee Morgan, 6:30 p.m., Jan. 26th.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner officiated the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Thompson, Route 2 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo D. Morgan, 497 E. Franklin St.

Red carnations in the altar vases, six white altar candles, a bouquet of red and white carnations on the piano and two small and one large candle, lighted by the couple signifying the union, decorated the church.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist and Mr. Dusty Rhoades, vocalist presented a program of nuptial selections. Included were "Wedding Song," "Wedding Benediction," "Sunrise - Sunset," and during the ceremony "Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white organza. Peau d'ange and chantilly lace embellished the empire bodice, high ruffled neckline and full Victorian sleeves. Scrolls of lace paneled the A-line skirt which swept softly to a chapel train.

A lace caplet trimmed in pearls framing the bride's face held her tiered elbow length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature and large carnations with loops of red velvet ribbon, ming fern and long white velvet streamers. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom and a gold bracelet from her maternal grandmother.

Maid of honor, Miss Debbie Dumm, wore a formal length forest green gown of Quiana and carried a crescent bouquet of candy striped carnations with long red velvet streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John D. Eitel III, Miss Debie Payne and Miss Kathi Barkhurst. They wore formal length poppy red gowns of Quiana and carried crescent bouquets of candy striped carnations with long green velvet streamers. The attendants' shoulder length veils with matching ribbon were the color of their gowns. Pearl wedding bell necklaces worn by the attendants were gifts of the bride.

1040 U.S. Income Tax Return for 1973 Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) Can you still deduct state gasoline taxes on your Federal income tax return?

(A.) Yes. If you itemize on your 1973 return, state and local taxes on gasoline, diesel fuel, and other motor fuels are deductible if they are separately stated and passed on to the consumer. Use the table in your Form 1040 instructions to determine your deduction.

(Q.) Is there a "revenue sharing" question on 1973 returns?

(A.) For purposes of revenue sharing, the only information you have to give on your return is your county of residence. See the instructions for either Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

(Q.) My son earned more than $750 last year. Can I still claim him as a dependent?

(A.) If, regardless of his age, your son was a full-time student for some part of each of any five months of 1973 or was less than 19 years old at the end of the year, you can claim him as a dependent regardless of how much money he made. Of course, all other dependency tests must be met, including furnishing more than one-half of your son's total support.

(Q.) What happened to Schedule B of my tax form — the schedule I used to detail interest and dividend income?

(A.) Schedule B has been eliminated, since a detailed listing of dividends and interest is no longer required. Simply report your total dividend and interest income in the space provided on the front of your Federal income tax return.

Of course, you should still keep a record of your individual dividend and interest receipts.

(Q.) I received a short form 1040A in the mail. How can I tell if I should use this short form or the long form 1040?

(A.) If you received a short form 1040A in the mail, it was sent to you based on the return you filed last year. But your situation may have changed and you may save money by filing Form 1040 instead. This is especially true if your itemized deductions are substantial, or if you are eligible for the retirement income credit. Just use the short formula set out in your Form 1040A instructions to help determine whether your tax could be lower if you itemize deductions.

(Q.) The person I paid to fill out my tax return has not signed it. Should I make sure that he does?

(A.) Yes. Anyone who prepares your return for compensation is required to sign it in the space provided. Spaces are also provided for the preparer's employer identification number or social security number, his address, and the date he signs the return. If he refuses to sign, you should print his name in the space provided.

(Q.) Will the IRS still figure out a person's tax liability, if he or she wants it to?

(A.) Yes. IF you use Form 1040, the Internal Revenue Service will figure out your tax if your adjusted gross income is $20,000 or less and was only from wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, you take the standard deduction and file your return by the due date. If you use the short form 1040A, the IRS will compute your tax, regardless of the amount of income you have, if your income consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends and interest, and you file by the due date. For more details, see your tax form instructions.

Ohio Woman Big Winner In Lottery

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A 54-year-old cosmetic saleslady and school bus driver from West Unity, Ohio, is Michigan's ninth millionaire lottery winner.

"It's the first thing I've ever won," said Ruth E. Cotter, who was selected from among 120 finalists Tuesday night.

"We've got to worry about income tax now," she said. Mrs. Cotter will receive checks of $50,000 a year for 20 years.

"We've made no plans, no plans at all," she said. "We just don't know what to do."

Mrs. Cotter was the third Ohio resident to win the millionaire drawing since the lottery began in November 1972.

The Cotters have six children, three each by previous marriages, and three grandchildren.

Cotter is the head street maintenance superintendent in West Unity. "Now I can pay my parking ticket," he said.

Funds Released For Great Seal Park Purchase

State Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced today the release of $11,000 by the State Controlling Board for the purchase of land for the Great Seal State Park near Chillicothe.

Funds released today will purchase two acres of land in Greene Township in Ross County.

This is the sixth option to purchase in the Great Seal area and it has been approved for 50 per cent federal funding under the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation program.

The Great Seal Park is expected to cover 1400 acres and encompass the hills which inspired the Great Seal of Ohio plaque. Three hundred-forty acres have been purchased in this area to date.

"Preserving this scenic area for everyone's enjoyment is a wise move," Rep. Shoemaker said. "This park will provide abundant outdoor recreational opportunities, especially for people in the Chillicothe area."

LE Alumni Seek To Update List

LEHS grads are requested to send their name, address and year graduated to Maxine Streber, 339 Watt St., so a mailing list may be completed for the summer banquet.

2nd Valuable Painting Located

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Another long-missing painting by Portsmouth artist Clarence Carter was found Tuesday, but the artist says this one was stolen and he wants it back.

It was the second Carter work to be discovered in less than a month. Another painting, valued at $25,000, was found in a women's restroom at Ohio University a few weeks ago.

The latest find was in the attic of a Jackson, Ohio, home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Martin rediscovered the painting while going through their attic looking for oil paintings for a customer of their antique shop.

Martin said the painting was given to him before World War II by a friend who has since died. It is signed "Clarence H. Carter '28."

The buyer offered Martin $6 for the painting, but he said the signature and recent publicity surrounding the OU painting made him take a second look. He refused the offer and began checking on the find.

Carter was contacted at his home in Minford, N.J., and immediately recognized the painting, an oil portrait of a bearded old man, from a description.

He said it was one of three started while he was in Italy in 1927 and finished a few months later in Paris in 1928.

Carter said he loaned the picture to a Portsmouth man in the early 1930s for a local exhibition, but it was never returned.

He said he tried many times but could never recover the painting.

"I consider the painting was stolen and that it still belongs to me and should be returned," he said.

"It never was sold by me. I simply tried to help with the Portsmouth exhibit back in the '30s and lost the painting."

"I tried for years and years to recover the work, but never could. Always the man would avoid me or give evasive answers when I'd inquire."

Carter said he even tried to recover the painting through the man's family after his death, but was unsuccessful.

Carter said he could not put a value on the picture, but the value could be determined by checking the value placed on one of its companion paintings in the Cleveland Museum.

Cleveland Museum officials say the painting is worth between $500 and $1,000. The companion painting titled "Woman of the Sabines," will soon be shipped to a New Jersey State Museum exhibit of Carter Paintings.

It was the search for paintings for the exhibition which led to the discovery of the Carter painting in the OU women's restroom.

As for the Martins, they said they never expected anything like this. They said the picture had hung in the family home for awhile but it was stored after they redecorated.

The painting survived a fire in the home a few years ago, but the heat and lack of care have damaged it. Martin said he believes it can be restored.

Local Residents Involved In Lake Lands Dispute

A number of residents of Circleville and Pickaway County who own property in the Buckeye Lake area are members of the Buckeye Lake Waterfront Property Owners Assn.

The organization was formed to protect the rights of property owners who own real estate at the state canal lake.

Disputes have arisen from the casual approach taken by the state in recording titles and delineating boundaries when it constructed its system of canals and canal reservoirs early in the 19th century.

At Buckeye Lake the battle between the state and private owners has been in and out of court almost constantly this century. And the problem has become more complex for lake lands private owners since the State Lake Lands Administration was established in 1972. The office was established by the Ohio General Assembly to settle the thousands of century old property title disputes between the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and residents at six state canal lakes.

However, many landowners feel State Lake Lands Administration is not doing the job it was intended to do. That is the reason the waterfront property owners association was formed.

Persuasion Over Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has told Congress it plans to end most wage and price controls by April 30 and proposes to rely in large part on persuasion in helping to hold down prices.

To dubious senators who wondered if this would be enough, Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council said: "We ought not to underestimate the power of persuasion compared with the power to order people."

Dunlop said the administration wants authority to expand the Cost of Living Council into an umbrella agency that would coordinate economic policies of other government agencies.

It also would have authority to monitor anti-inflation commitments made by industries, to hold public hearings and require reports from the private sector on wage and price activities.

Dunlop and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told a Senate Banking Committee subcommittee Wednesday that the administration wants to maintain mandatory controls only over the health and petroleum industries after April 30, the date the present controls program will expire.

Shultz said the administration may propose continuing controls over one or two additional industries. Dunlop indicated to newsmen that the construction industry could be one of these.

But for all intents and purposes, the administration is proposing to terminate the 2½-year-old experiment with mandatory wage and price controls that started with a price freeze in August of 1971.

Death of the controls program apparently will be unlamented in Congress as well as in the administration. Not a single voice was raised in the subcommittee in favor of continuing them.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A.A. May Be Answer

DEAR ABBY: My wife loves to cook with wine; that gives her an excuse to get into the wine bottle.

She's a school teacher, so her hours are shorter than mine. When I get home at 5:30 p.m. she's already had a snootful and is making dinner (using wine, of course) so by the time we sit down to dinner (with wine) she's already smashed.

After dinner she falls asleep in front of the TV. The next morning she wakes up bright and cheerful, and that evening it's the same story.

If we have no plans for the weekend, it's the same routine only she starts earlier. If I suggest she lay off the wine, she becomes defensive and insists she can take it or leave it alone. (But she always takes it.)

Is she an alcoholic? And if she is, how can I help her? I hate to see a pretty, intelligent young woman grow ugly and dull before my eyes. Fortunately, we have no children, and with things as they are, I'm going to make sure we don't have any. In the meantime, how can you help someone who refuses to admit she needs help?

PATIENT HUSBAND

DEAR PATIENT: It's not easy. I think your wife is an alcoholic, but until she admits it, and takes steps to overcome it, no one can help her. Alanon, the companion group to Alcoholic Anonymous, teaches the mates of alcoholics to cope with that problem. When you learn how to handle it, you may get her to help herself. It's worth a try. They're in the phone book. Get going and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a problem to end all problems. I am 35, and Ira is 41. We've been living together for two years and three months. We had a big fight last week, and I kicked him out. I told Sybil (my best friend) about kicking Ira out, and within three days Sybil and Ira were married! I didn't know a thing about it. Ira came to see me and I thought he came to make up with me because we made love. It was just like old times. I guess he couldn't get up the nerve to tell me about him and Sybil.

That night Sybil came over and she said she and Ira were married. I didn't believe her and called her a liar. Anyway, the next day Ira came over and said it was true. He also said he was drunk when he married her, but he still loved me. I know this sounds crazy, but I love him, too. We belong together. Sybil told me that Ira really loved ME, and she didn't really want him, she just married him to make her boy friend jealous.

Abby, can Ira's marriage be annulled because he was drunk? We're back together again and want to be married soon as possible.

"POOPSIE"

DEAR POOPSIE: I don't know whether Ira's marriage can be annulled or not, but a lawyer can tell you. So see one!

DEAR ABBY: Why do mothers teach their daughters that when a boy brings them home from a date they should "thank" him for the lovely evening?

After all, it's the MAN who does the asking, and if the lady grants him the date, then HE should thank HER for the lovely evening.

I'm in disagreement with someone over this point and want your opinion.

N.C.

DEAR N.C.: A lady doesn't "grant" a gentleman a date in the same sense that a celebrity "grants" someone an interview, or the Pope grants someone an audience. She simply accepts his invitation. And if they both enjoyed themselves, they should thank each other!

State Teachers Pay Increases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The average salary of teachers in Ohio public schools jumped 7 per cent last year, but the gain was wiped out by inflation, the Ohio Education Association said today.

In a report published in Ohio Schools magazine, the OEA said the average salary climbed to $10,750.

The 7 per cent gain was above the 4.9 per cent national average, but below the 8.8 per cent rise in the cost of living, the OEA said.

The percentage rise was the highest of Great Lakes area states, and allowed Ohio to surpass Indiana in average teacher pay, the report said.

County Health Department Monthly Activities Reported

Pickaway County Board of Health heard reports from health nurse Carlene Francis, environmentalist Hugh Barnhill and sanitarian Thoburn Blaney during its meeting last week at the health department office, 705 S. Court St.

Mrs. Francis reported she assisted at the Well Child Clinic where 21 county children were seen and 24 immunizations given. She assisted at POD clinic where six county children were seen. She is presently working with the therapist on followup.

In addition, Mrs. Francis assisted with a speech, language and hearing clinic where 21 county children were seen and recommendations were made for future care. She assisted at the chest clinic held at Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Francis reported 212 students have been screened by speech and hearing therapists in the schools and 153 children have been screened for pediculosis.

Fourteen home visits were made by Mrs. Francis in January. Visits included hospital and school referrals, crippled children and clinic followup. A total of 22 immunizations were administered at the Immunization clinic held in the health department office for county children every second and fourth Friday between 2 and 4 p.m.

Barnhill and Blaney reported registration of 120 food service operations, 30 vending locations, 30 sewage system installations, 25 trailer parks and six camps were completed last month.

During the month 24 office consultations were completed. Five sewage permits were issued and five applications were received. Eight pre-building site investigations were made. Ten food service inspections were compiled during the month. Seven water samples were collected and two sewage systems inspected.

A survey by the Ohio Department of Health of camp and swimming pool administration and inspections was completed. The County office was complimented in a detailed report for progress made so far and good record and file system.

Blaney met with county commissioners to discuss progress on the multi county solid waste district. The sanitarians met with the subdivision review board to review four subdivisions.

Effie Davis, office supervisor, reported all members of the staff had participated in preparation of the semi-annual news letter mailed to all township trustees and mayors this month.

A financial report prepared by Lorene Miller accompanied the report. The department's annual report to the Ohio Department of Health was also completed this month.

An invitation to Dr. Frank R. Moore, county health commissioner, asking representatives to attend a meeting sponsored by the Ohio Department of Health and entitled Financing Health Departments was presented to the board. The board advised John Fissell, chairman of the general health district advisory council to attend the meeting. The next board of health meeting will be 7 p.m. Feb. 26.

Board members present at the January meeting were Richard Christensen, president; Charles McCray and Norman Godden.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return for 1973 Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) Can you still deduct state gasoline taxes on your Federal income tax return?

(A.) Yes. If you itemize on your 1973 return, state and local taxes on gasoline, diesel fuel, and other motor fuels are deductible if they are separately stated and passed on to the consumer. Use the table in your Form 1040 instructions to determine your deduction.

(Q.) Is there a "revenue sharing" question on 1973 returns?

(A.) For purposes of revenue sharing, the only information you have to give on your return is your county of residence. See the instructions for either Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

(Q.) My son earned more than $750 last year. Can I still claim him as a dependent?

(A.) If, regardless of his age, your son was a full-time student for some part of each of any five months of 1973 or was less than 19 years old at the end of the year, you can claim him as a dependent regardless of how much money he made. Of course, all other dependency tests must be met, including furnishing more than one-half of your son's total support.

(Q.) What happened to Schedule B of my tax form — the schedule I used to detail interest and dividend income?

(A.) Schedule B has been eliminated, since a detailed listing of dividends and interest is no longer required. Simply report your total dividend and interest income in the space provided on the front of your Federal income tax return.

Of course, you should still keep a record of your individual dividend and interest receipts.

(Q.) I received a short form 1040A in the mail. How can I tell if I should use this short form or the long form 1040?

(A.) If you received a short form 1040A in the mail, it was sent to you based on the return you filed last year. But your situation may have changed and you may save money by filing Form 1040 instead. This is especially true if your itemized deductions are substantial, or if you are eligible for the retirement income credit. Just use the short formula set out in your Form 1040A instructions to help determine whether your tax could be lower if you itemize deductions.

(Q.) The person I paid to fill out my tax return has not signed it. Should I make sure that he does?

(A.) Yes. Anyone who prepares your return for compensation is required to sign it in the space provided. Spaces are also provided for the preparer's employer identification number or social security number, his address, and the date he signs the return. If he refuses to sign, you should print his name in the space provided.

(Q.) Will the IRS still figure out a person's tax liability, if he or she wants it to?

(A.) Yes. IF you use Form 1040, the Internal Revenue Service will figure out your tax if your adjusted gross income is $20,000 or less and was only from wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, you take the standard deduction and file your return by the due date. If you use the short form 1040A, the IRS will compute your tax, regardless of the amount of income you have, if your income consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends and interest, and you file by the due date. For more details, see your tax form instructions.

Ohio Woman Big Winner In Lottery

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A 54-year-old cosmetic saleslady and school bus driver from West Unity, Ohio, is Michigan's ninth millionaire lottery winner.

"It's the first thing I've ever won," said Ruth E. Cotter, who was selected from among 120 finalists Tuesday night.

"We've got to worry about income tax now," she said. Mrs. Cotter will receive checks of $50,000 a year for 20 years.

"We've made no plans, no plans at all," she said. "We just don't know what to do."

Mrs. Cotter was the third Ohio resident to win the millionaire drawing since the lottery began in November 1972.

The Cotters have six children, three each by previous marriages, and three grandchildren.

Cotter is the head street maintenance superintendent in West Unity. "Now I can pay my parking ticket," he said.

Funds Released For Great Seal Park Purchase

State Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced today the release of $11,000 by the State Controlling Board for the purchase of land for the Great Seal State Park near Chillicothe.

Funds released today will purchase two acres of land in Greene Township in Ross County.

This is the sixth option to purchase in the Great Seal area and it has been approved for 50 per cent federal funding under the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation program.

The Great Seal Park is expected to cover 1400 acres and encompass the hills which inspired the Great Seal of Ohio plaque. Three hundred-forty acres have been purchased in this area to date.

"Preserving this scenic area for everyone's enjoyment is a wise move," Rep. Shoemaker said. "This park will provide abundant outdoor recreational opportunities, especially for people in the Chillicothe area."

2nd Valuable Painting Located

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Another long-missing painting by Portsmouth artist Clarence Carter was found Tuesday, but the artist says this one was stolen and he wants it back.

It was the second Carter work to be discovered in less than a month. Another painting, valued at $25,000, was found in a women's restroom at Ohio University a few weeks ago.

The latest find was in the attic of a Jackson, Ohio, home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Martin rediscovered the painting while going through their attic looking for oil paintings for a customer of their antique shop.

Martin said the painting was given to him before World War II by a friend who has since died. It is signed "Clarence H. Carter '28."

The buyer offered Martin $6 for the painting, but he said the signature and recent publicity surrounding the OU painting made him take a second look. He refused the offer and began checking on the find.

Carter was contacted at his home in Minford, N.J., and immediately recognized the painting, an oil portrait of a bearded old man, from a description.

He said it was one of three started while he was in Italy in 1927 and finished a few months later in Paris in 1928.

Carter said he loaned the picture to a Portsmouth man in the early 1930s for a local exhibition, but it was never returned.

He said he tried many times but could never recover the painting.

"I consider the painting was stolen and that it still belongs to me and should be returned," he said.

"It never was sold by me. I simply tried to help with the Portsmouth exhibit back in the '30s and lost the painting."

"I tried for years and years to recover the work, but never could. Always the man would avoid me or give evasive answers when I'd inquire."

Carter said he even tried to recover the painting through the man's family after his death, but was unsuccessful.

Carter said he could not put a value on the picture, but the value could be determined by checking the value placed on one of its companionpaintings in the Cleveland Museum.

Cleveland Museum officials say the painting is worth between $500 and $1,000. The companion painting titled "Woman of the Sabines," will soon be shipped to a New Jersey State Museum exhibit of Carter Paintings.

It was the search for paintings for the exhibition which led to the discovery of the Carter painting in the OU women's restroom.

As for the Martins, they said they never expected anything like this. They said the picture had hung in the family home for awhile but it was stored after they redecorated.

The painting survived a fire in the home a few years ago, but the heat and lack of care have damaged it. Martin said he believes it can be restored.

Five Points News

By MRS. FRANCIS FURNISS

The Five Points United Methodist Social Hour Club held their January meeting Thursday evening in the church basement. A lovely covered dish supper preceded the meeting at 6:30 p.m. with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Redman as hosts.

The president, Mrs. Redman, opened the meeting with scripture reading from the 16th Psalm followed by prayer by Mr. Redman. Roll call was answered by 7 members and the Rev. and Mrs. Ken Chapin and children Jill and Kenny were also present.

The secretary, Mrs. Francis Furniss, read the minutes of the last meeting and a "Thank You" note from Margaret Brigner for the flower she had received when she was in the hospital. Also notes of appreciation from the Pickaway Manor and the Brown Memorial nursing Homes in Circleville for the lovely homemade cookies received at Christmas time.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

A peaceful evening can be yours tonight. Stop off in the children's room for some eye catching new books and the children will entertain themselves. In the middle of a power shortage, nine year old Betsy charges about trying to make fun for her two visiting cousins in "Snowbound with Betsy" by Carolyn Haywood. It should be mentioned that your 4th grader may want to pop corn and make presents to sell in a make believe store after reading about Betsy.

Trading property with a boy that turns out to be a girl is Eddie's problem in "Eddie and His Big Deals", also by Haywood. Scruffy, active boys with a passion for collecting will chuckle as Eddie makes the best of his ridiculous situation.

The delight of a balloon sailing into the yard when you have been very sick is one of the stories in "Away Went the Balloons" by Haywood. All the balloons launched as a project by first graders provide an adventure for the receiver. Puppies and even suspected witches serve the reader with a delightfully warm collection of happenings.

"Socks" the cat star of Beverly Cleary's latest book is dismayed by the changes in his household when the new baby arrives. He finds the fast paced changes mean getting no leftover formula in his dish when the funny new creature decides to sleep all night. Socks is a very real cat who can usually get what he wants with charm.

For beginning readers, Don Freeman's newest book is about a donkey "Inspector Peckit." The dauntless pigeon wearing a beret tries to find a little girl's lost birthday present. His adventures take him all over the city of Paris and into dangerous confrontations with cats. A very easy reading mystery story with cartoon style full page pictures will have appeal for boys and girls. "Something Queer is Going On" chronicles the moment to moment frustrations of tracking down a runaway hound who is too lazy to run away. It's by Elizabeth Levy.

Stunning photos of winsome animals undergoing the healing process fill every page of "What Can She Be? A Veterinarian" by Gloria and Esther Goldreich. No one can accuse Herbert Zim author of "What's Inside of Me?" of writing dull texts. He can compare the arm to a chicken drumstick and describe how a tickle activates your system. Bright clear drawings are colorful and concise enough to appeal to the young child.

Finally, two new Indian books by anthropologist Sonia Bleeker are in. "The Eskimo" which describes the importance of the igloo to the hunter in the winter months is fascinating. And "The Cherokee" which tells of the mountain Indian's daily life and bitter battles over a century ago is very timely.

Wellston Talks Set

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The Wellston Board of Education scheduled a meeting tonight with striking teachers and administrators to discuss the strike.

Meanwhile, the board urged the 111 teachers and six administrators to return to their classrooms immediately. A spokesman for the strikers said the walkout will continue.

Members of the local teachers and administrators' associations struck Tuesday after the board voted not to renew the contracts of six administrators. Tonight's special meeting will be the first since the walkout.

The strike affects about 2,000 students in four schools and strikers claim support of almost 100 per cent of the teachers.

Non-professional school system employees were honoring the picket lines.

Communities Enter Into Water Contracts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two communities in southeastern Ohio have entered into contracts with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to receive water from the staterun Burr Oak Water Distribution System.

The department said the Sunday Creek Valley Water District in Athens County may draw up to 100,000 gallons of water a day and Murray City in Hocking County, up to 150,000 gallons.

Taft, Metzenbaum Support Cloture Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr., a Republican, and Howard M. Metzenbaum, Democrat, both voted Wednesday in favor of invoking cloture to limit debate on the Genocide Treaty.

The proposal received a 55-38 favorable vote, less than the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A.A. May Be Answer

DEAR ABBY: My wife loves to cook with wine; that gives her an excuse to get into the wine bottle. She's a school teacher, so her hours are shorter than mine. When I get home at 5:30 p.m. she's already had a snootful and is making dinner (using wine, of course) so by the time we sit down to dinner (with wine) she's already smashed.

After dinner she falls asleep in front of the TV. The next morning she wakes up bright and cheerful, and that evening it's the same story.

If we have no plans for the weekend, it's the same routine only she starts earlier. If I suggest she lay off the wine, she becomes defensive and insists she can take it or leave it alone. (But she always takes it.)

Is she an alcoholic? And if she is, how can I help her? I hate to see a pretty, intelligent young woman grow ugly and dull before my eyes. Fortunately, we have no children, and with things as they are, I'm going to make sure we don't have any. In the meantime, how can you help someone who refuses to admit she needs help?

PATIENT HUSBAND
DEAR PATIENT: It's not easy. I think your wife is an alcoholic, but until she admits it, and takes steps to overcome it, no one can help her. Alanon, the companion group to Alcoholics Anonymous, teaches the mates of alcoholics to cope with that problem. When you learn how to handle it, you may get her to help herself. It's worth a try. They're in the phone book. Get going and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a problem to end all problems. I am 35, and Ira is 41. We've been living together for two years and three months. We had a big fight last week, and I kicked him out. I told Sybil (my best friend) about kicking Ira out, and within three days Sybil and Ira were married! I didn't know a thing about it. Ira came to see me and I thought he came to make up with me because we made love. It was just like old times. I guess he couldn't get up the nerve to tell me about him and Sybil.

That night Sybil came over and she said she and Ira were married. I didn't believe her and called her a liar. Anyway, the next day Ira came over and said it was true. He also said he was drunk when he married her, but he still loved me. I know this sounds crazy, but I love him, too. We belong together. Sybil told me that Ira really loved ME, and she didn't really want him, she just married him to make her boy friend jealous.

Abby, can Ira's marriage be annulled because he was drunk? We're back together again and want to be married soon as possible.

"POOPSIE"
DEAR POOPSIE: I don't know whether Ira's marriage can be annulled or not, but a lawyer can tell you. So see one!

DEAR ABBY: Why do mothers teach their daughters that when a boy brings them home from a date they should "thank" him for the lovely evening?

After all, it's the MAN who does the asking, and if the lady grants him the date, then HE should thank HER for the lovely evening.

I'm in disagreement with someone over this point and want your opinion. N.C.

DEAR N.C.: A lady doesn't "grant" a gentleman a date in the same sense that a celebrity "grants" someone an interview, or the Pope grants someone an audience. She simply accepts his invitation. And if they both enjoyed themselves, they should thank each other!

State Teachers Pay Increases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The average salary of teachers in Ohio public schools jumped 7 per cent last year, but the gain was wiped out by inflation, the Ohio Education Association said today.

In a report published in Ohio Schools magazine, the OEA said the average salary climbed to $10,750.

The 7 per cent gain was above the 4.9 per cent national average, but below the 8.8 per cent rise in the cost of living, the OEA said.

The percentage rise was the highest of Great Lakes area states, and allowed Ohio to surpass Indiana in average teacher pay, the report said.

CHS Tigers Face Double SCOL Action

Circleville has two South Central Ohio League contests on tap this week. The Tigers will be at Miami Trace Friday night and host Hillsboro at the high school Saturday night.

The Tigers are 10-5 on the season and hold a 6-4 mark in SCOL play. They are currently tied with Hillsboro for third place.

Miami Trace and Washington C. H. are tied for the league lead with 8-1 records. The Panthers are 10-5 overall and the Blue Lions are sporting a 12-3 mark for the season.

The Red and Black cagers handed Miami Trace its only loss in league play, 71-60, in their first meeting.

Trace is the leading offensive team in the league and has four people averaging in double figures, Dave Persinger, Dave Steinhouser, Jeff King and Randy Reiber.

"Miami Trace is a solid ball club with good size and fine rebounding," Circleville coach John Lawhorn stated. "Persinger is the second leading scorer in the SCOL and the league's leading rebounder. Kris Kline did a great job on him in our first game and was one of the keys to the victory."

The Panthers will use a man to man defense and also have a fine 1-2-1 full court zone press.

Starting for Miami Trace will be: Steve Mowery, 5-foot-10, and Steinhouser, 6-foot-1, at the guards, Persinger, 6-foot-6, at center and King, 6-foot-2, and Reiber, 6-foot-2, at the forwards.

Circleville will be looking for revenge Saturday night when the Indians of Hillsboro roll into town. Hillsboro topped the Tigers, 53-47, in their first meeting of the season.

The Indians have a fine shooting team and are a strong offensive rebounding squad, usually with four men going to the boards.

They vary their defense from man to man, 1-2-2 zone and use a 1-2-1 half court trap. The Indians are very aggressive and have strong bench.

Kevin Bailey, 5-foot-9 guard, is the leading scorer in the SCOL, averaging 22 points a game. The Indians take advantage of his fine shooting and like to set picks for him.

The starting unit for Hillsboro will be: Bailey and Mike Vance, 5-foot-10, at the guards, Roger Jewett, 6-foot, at center with Dave Larimer, 6-foot-2, and Lawrence Turner, 6-foot-1, working up front.

Circleville is averaging 61.4 points per game and the tight defense of the Tigers has limited the opposition to 53.9 markers a game.

Kline is leading the Tiger scoring with 14.6 points per game, Harold Reed has a 13.8 average, Robin Martin is hitting for 11.8, Perry Hoskins has 10.2 and Doug Radabaugh is netting 5.4 for the Circleville starting five.

Miami Of Ohio Rips Ball State For 101-81 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami of Ohio's Phil Lumpkin was hot and he knew it. So did Ball State.

"If we had an axe, we would have used it on him," said Ball State's Jim Holstein. "Nothing else would have stopped him."

The six-foot senior guard poured in a career-high 32 points Wednesday night as the streaking Redskins notched their sixth straight victory with a 101-81 triumph over Ball State.

Left in the lineup to bid for Millett Hall's scoring high, Lumpkin finished up with three jump shots in the last minute—including a 35-footer near the end which broke the gym record.

"Of course I thought I would make it," he said afterwards. "I don't put up shots unwisely."

Elsewhere, Kent State became the 18th consecutive victim of rampaging Pittsburgh, Bowling Green downed Cleveland State 82-69, Virginia Tech stopped Toledo 80-69 and Wittenberg continued its winning ways with a 108-69 triumph over Wabash.

Marietta outlasted Wooster 63-59 in an Ohio Conference game, Findlay nipped Anderson 85-83 in a Hoosier-Buckeye Conference meeting and Defiance overtook Bluffton for an 83-82 win on Bruce Baer's two free throws with 12 seconds left. Heidelberg topped Walsh 69-62, John Carroll breezed by Carnegie Mellon 82-71, and Wilberforce buried Detroit Tech 109-92.

Lumpkin, now eighth on the school's all-time scoring list, got the green light from Coach Darrell Hedric with a minute remaining.

"I left him in there so he could break the record," said Hedric. "I think he deserved the record. He's done a lot for Miami and for this team and I was hoping he would get it."

Wittenberg, owner of one of the state's best records, upped its season mark to 15-2 behind a well-balanced attack. Wittenberg bolted to a 23-3 lead after five minutes.

Billy Knight's 26 points propelled surprising Pitt to its 18th straight victory since a season-opening loss. The streak is the longest in the nation by a major college.

Give Notre Dame's basketball team a foot and they'll take a mile. Give them a sprained ankle ... and they'll take the ballgame.

The aggressive Fighting Irish, who usually don't need any help, got some Wednesday night when LaSalle star Joe Bryant injured his ankle.

And the result was predictable: Notre Dame 98, LaSalle 78.

"You take 19 points and 10 rebounds out of your lineup and you're in trouble," said LaSalle Coach Paul Westhead after the humiliation by the powerful, third-ranked Irish.

When Bryant hurt his foot in the first half, they were worse than in trouble — they were dead.

After he left, Notre Dame broke away from a 19-19 tie with a 13-2 scoring streak. Bryant came back in the game in the second half, but reinjured the foot and had to be taken to a Philadelphia hospital for the night. It was believed to be a severe sprain.

"We just had to throw away our game plan," said a pained Westhead, who also was forced to play most of the game without foul-troubled Charlie

Hayes Leads Hope Desert Classic

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Mark Hayes had the lead, Lee Elder had the goal, and Arnold Palmer had an observation.

Hayes, a softly-drawing native of Oklahoma and an obscure rookie on the pro golf tour, managed a wind-blown, four-under-par 68 for the first-round lead in the five-day, 90-hole Bob Hope Desert Classic Wednesday.

"I'm kind of surprised to be leading," said Hayes, 24, who has been on the tour only since last fall. "I thought the scores would be lower."

A tricky, gusty, swirling desert wind took care of that, however, and left Hayes, Elder and Mike McCullough the only players under 70 played in the first of five 18-hole rounds.

Elder, one of the few blacks on the tour, and McCullough, a one-time schoolteacher in Monroe, Mich., tied for second at 69.

"I want to win and I want to get in the Masters," said Elder, a consistent money winner in his half-dozen years on the pro tour but never a winner. A black has not yet played in the Masters. To be eligible, Elder needs a victory.

Lebron Harris, Rick Acton and New Zealand's John Lister had 70s. Of those six leaders, only Harris has scored a regular tour victory. The game's big guns were swept back by the sandstorms kicked up by the gusty winds.

Palmer, however, refused to take refuge in excuse of weather after his fat, four-over-par 76. Palmer's victory in this tournament last year has been his only tour title since 1972.

"The weather wasn't all that bad," he said. "I made some bad judgments and my chipping was just awful."

But, he observed, "it's not all that bad. I was seven strokes back after the first round last year."

He wasn't alone in his problems. Millionaire Billy Casper had a 75. Australian Bruce Devlin, a former winner here, had a 77. Rookie Ben Crenshaw took a fat 81 and his amateur team was disqualified when astronaut Gene Cernan signed an incorrect scorecard.

Lapham Happy With Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — David Lapham got a taste of winning after the football season ended for Syracuse. Now he'd like a full course with the Cincinnati Bengals.

"We were only 2-8 for the season," said the Bengals' No. 3 draft choice, "but my teams were 4-0 in postseason games."

"I like playing for a winner—and Cincinnati is a winner."

Lapham, a 6-foot-4, 260-pound offensive guard, is one of the Bengals' top draft choices who hasn't signed yet. But the Wakefield, Mass., native doesn't expect any problems.

"I always wanted to play for the National Football League. Right now I'm picking an agent and getting right into contract negotiations," said Lapham.

Birmingham of the new World Football League made him an 11th round pick.

The wide-shouldered Syracuse captain said he was worried his team's lowly record "might influence my chances in the draft."

But the Bengals held Lapham's pass-blocking talents in high regard. And with veteran Bengal Pat Matson headed for surgery, extra depth fit into Coach Paul Brown's thinking.

"My hopes went up when Bill Johnson, the Bengals' offensive line coach, showed up a week before the draft and timed me. Then an hour before the draft started, I got a call from the Cleveland Browns, but they didn't get to draft until much later. Then the Kansas City Chiefs, Dallas Cowboys and the Bengals called."

Lapham possesses 5.1 seconds speed in the 40-yard dash, considered excellent for a man of his bulk.

His bigness begins at the bottom of his broad frame.

"I had size 14 feet when I was 14 years old. My feet stopped growing ... but I didn't," he laughed.

Lapham was named to Blue-Gray, East-West, and Hula Bowls. He was a late addition to the Senior Bowl when Ohio State's John Hicks passed up the postseason contest.

It was in two of the bowls that Lapham discovered another reason he'd be happy in Cincinnati.

"I played against Bill Kellar—the Bengals No. 1 pick—in both those games. Now there's a guy with quickness. He's another Mike Reid."

"Was I glad to hear the Bengals signed him. I'd hate to make a living going against him all the time."

Frericks Hurls Shot For Irish

Tom Frericks, former stellar athlete at Circleville High School, will be throwing the shot for Notre Dame's indoor track team Friday in French Field House at Ohio State University.

In his first outing for the Irish, Frericks placed second in a dual meet with Northwestern.

The tri meet, Ohio State, Notre Dame and East Carolina, will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Westfall Cagers In Action Saturday

Westfall cagers will see double action this week. They will be at Zane Trace Friday night and at Leesburg Saturday night.

The Leesburg game was inadvertently omitted from the county basketball story in Tuesday's edition of The Herald.

Colonels Rip Cougars

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

If the basketball court is the Kentucky Colonels' office, don't expect any outside charity from them.

They all gave at the office.

The Colonels registered a whopping 34 assists Wednesday night and showed Carolina no mercy, blasting the Cougars 125-111.

With the victory, second-place Kentucky still trails the New York Nets, 121-100 winners over the Indiana Pacers, by one game in the crowded section of the American Basketball Association's East Division. Carolina fell to two games off the pace.

Elsewhere in the ABA, the Utah Stars downed the San Antonio Spurs 88-81 and the San Diego Conquistadors pounded the Memphis Tams 136-120.

Newly acquired guard John Roche was the biggest contributor to Kentucky's cause.

"Roche is as sure a ball-handler as there is," said Kentucky Coach Babe McCarthy.

Roche, who had been wearing New York Nets letters on his uniform since being drafted out of South Carolina in 1971, was traded to the Colonels late last week for Wendell Ladner and Mike Gale.

Mitch Anderson of Northwestern led the Big Ten Last season in passing for touchdowns with 10.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

A peaceful evening can be yours tonight. Stop off in the children's room for some eye catching new books and the children will entertain themselves. In the middle of a power shortage, nine year old Betsy charges about trying to make fun for her two visiting cousins in "Snowbound with Betsy" by Carolyn Haywood. It should be mentioned that your 4th grader may want to pop corn and make presents to sell in a make believe store after reading about Betsy.

Trading property with a boy that turns out to be a girl is Eddie's problem in "Eddie and His Big Deals", also by Haywood. Scruffy, active boys with a passion for collecting will chuckle as Eddie makes the best of his ridiculous situation.

The delight of a balloon sailing into the yard when you have been very sick is one of the stories in "Away Went the Balloons" by Haywood. All the balloons launched as a project by first graders provide an adventure for the receiver. Puppies and even suspected witches serve the reader with a delightfully warm collection of happenings.

"Socks" the cat star of Beverly Cleary's latest book is dismayed by the changes in his household when the new baby arrives. He finds the fast paced changes mean getting no leftover formula in his dish when the funny new creature decides to sleep all night. Socks is a very real cat who can usually get what he wants with charm.

For beginning readers, Don Freeman's newest book is about debonair "Inspector Peckit." The dauntless pigeon wearing a beret tries to find a little girl's lost birthday present. His adventures take him all over the city of Paris and into dangerous confrontations with cats. A very easy reading mystery story with cartoon style full page pictures will have appeal for boys and girls. "Something Queer is Going On" chronicles the moment to moment frustrations of tracking down a runaway hound who is too lazy to run away. It's by Elizabeth Levy.

Stunning photos of winsome animals undergoing the healing process fill every page of "What Can She Be? A Veterinarian" by Gloria and Esther Goldreich. No one can accuse Herbert Zim author of "What's Inside of Me?" of writing dull texts. He can compare the arm to a chicken drumstick and describe how a tickle activates your system. Bright clear drawings are colorful and concise enough to appeal to the young child.

Finally, two new Indian books by anthropologist Sonia Bleeker are in. "The Eskimo" which describes the importance of the igloo to the hunter in the winter months is fascinating. And "The Cherokee" which tells of the mountain Indian's daily life and bitter battles over a century ago is very timely.

Wellston Talks Set

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The Wellston Board of Education scheduled a meeting tonight with striking teachers and administrators to discuss the strike.

Meanwhile, the board urged the 111 teachers and six administrators to return to their classrooms immediately. A spokesman for the strikers said the walkout will continue. Members of the local teachers and administrators' associations struck Tuesday after the board voted not to renew the contracts of six administrators. Tonight's special meeting will be the first since the walkout.

The strike affects about 2,000 students in four schools and strikers claim support of almost 100 per cent of the teachers.

Non-professional school system employees were honoring the picket lines.

Communities Enter Into Water Contracts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two communities in southeastern Ohio have entered into contracts with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to receive water from the staterun Burr Oak Water Distribution System.

The department said the Sunday Creek Valley Water District in Athens County may draw up to 100,000 gallons of water a day and Murray City in Hocking County, up to 150,000 gallons.

Taft, Metzenbaum Support Cloture Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr., a Republican, and Howard M. Metzenbaum, Democrat, both voted Wednesday in favor of invoking cloture to limit debate on the Genocide Treaty.

The proposal received a 55-38 favorable vote, less than the two-thirds majority needed for passage.

Few Clues In Hearst Kidnapping

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say they have few clues to the whereabouts of kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. They are not ruling out the possibility her captors may still be holding her in this university town.

"For all we know they could be six blocks from here," Berkeley Police Information Officer Richard Berger said Wednesday of the white woman and two black men who abducted the 19-year-old Miss Hearst from her apartment here Monday night. "I wish we had some way of knowing where they are."

John Kelley, assistant agent in charge of the San Francisco FBI office, said "quite a number of men" were pursuing unspecified new developments. But he emphasized there had been "no big breakthroughs" in the case.

Neither the police nor the Hearst family has received any ransom demand or contact of any kind, Kelley said. Miss Hearst is the granddaughter of the late William Randolph Hearst, founder of the newspaper and magazine empire that bears his name.

Kelley said a special FBI artist from Washington was using witnesses' descriptions to make composite pictures of the three kidnapers, all said to be in their 20s.

He also said agents were circulating photographs of "possible suspects," both male and female. He declined to comment on published reports that pictures of women associated with radical groups were being shown to persons on the University of California campus here.

Florida Gets More Gas Deliveries

MIAMI (AP)—Gasoline deliveries are improving in Florida, but the state has dropped its "Come on down, there's plenty of gas" advertising.

In north Florida, most stations have gas enough to fill up anyone who stops. But central and south Florida have a tighter supply, with most dealers rationing customers to $2 or $3 worth.

In the Miami area, most stations still sell for only part of a day, are limiting sales and have long lines while they are open.

Oregon-style rationing has been adopted in six counties or cities within the last few days. Others are considering it.

Florida Turnpike stations, from central into south Florida, are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week but some are limiting sales.

Oil companies are dispatching trucks around the clock from terminals at major ports. That could change Thursday, however, depending on the reaction of independent truckers to a state Public Service Commission meeting on a request for new rates.

Federal officials have increased the allotment for south Florida after a near-panic situation around the first of the month.

Service stations began applying for higher gasoline allocations this week but it will take several days for decisions on those applications.

CHS Tigers Face Double SCOL Action

Circleville has two South Central Ohio League contests on tap this week. The Tigers will be at Miami Trace Friday night and host Hillsboro at the high school Saturday night.

The Tigers are 10-5 on the season and hold a 6-4 mark in SCOL play. They are currently tied with Hillsboro for third place.

Miami Trace and Washington C. H. are tied for the league lead with 8-1 records. The Panthers are 10-5 overall and the Blue Lions are sporting a 12-3 mark for the season.

Miami Of Ohio Rips Ball State For 101-81 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami of Ohio's Phil Lumpkin was hot and he knew it. So did Ball State. "If we had an axe, we would have used it on him," said Ball State's Jim Holstein. "Nothing else would have stopped him."

The six-foot senior guard poured in a career-high 32 points Wednesday night as the streaking Redskins notched their sixth straight victory with a 101-81 triumph over Ball State.

Left in the lineup to bid for Millett Hall's scoring high, Lumpkin finished up with three jump shots in the last minute—including a 35-footer near the end which broke the gym record.

"Of course I thought I would make it," he said afterwards. "I don't put up shots unwisely."

Elsewhere, Kent State became the 18th consecutive victim of rampaging Pittsburgh, Bowling Green downed Cleveland State 82-69, Virginia Tech stopped Toledo 80-69 and Wittenberg continued its winning ways with a 108-69 triumph over Wabash.

Marietta outlasted Wooster 63-59 in an Ohio Conference game, Findlay nipped Anderson 85-83 in a Hoosier-Buckeye Conference meeting and Defiance overtook Bluffton for an 83-82 win on Bruce Baer's two free throws with 12 seconds left. Heidelberg topped Walsh 69-62, John Carroll breezed by Carnegie Mellon 82-71, and Wilberforce buried Detroit Tech 109-92.

Lumpkin, now eighth on the school's all-time scoring list, got the green light from Coach Darrell Hedric with a minute remaining.

"I left him in there so he could break the record," said Hedric. "I think he deserved the record. He's done a lot for Miami and for this team and I was hoping he would get it."

Wittenberg, owner of one of the state's best records, upped its season mark to 15-2 behind a well-balanced attack. Wittenberg bolted to a 23-3 lead after five minutes.

Billy Knight's 26 points propelled surprising Pitt to its 18th straight victory since a season-opening loss. The streak is the longest in the nation by a major college.

The Red and Black cagers handed Miami Trace its only loss in league play, 71-60, in their first meeting.

Trace is the leading offensive team in the league and has four people averaging in double figures, Dave Persinger, Dave Steinhouser, Jeff King and Randy Reiber.

"Miami Trace is a solid ball club with good size and fine rebounding," Circleville coach John Lawhorn stated. "Persinger is the second leading scorer in the SCOL and the league's leading rebounder. Kris Kline did a great job on him in our first game and was one of the keys to the victory."

The Panthers will use a man to man defense and also have a fine 1-2-1 full court zone press.

Starting for Miami Trace will be: Steve Mowery, 5-foot-10, and Steinhouser, 6-foot-1, at the guards, Persinger, 6-foot-6, at center and King, 6-foot-2, and Reiber, 6-foot-2, at the forwards.

Circleville will be looking for revenge Saturday night when the Indians of Hillsboro roll into town. Hillsboro topped the Tigers, 53-47, in their first meeting of the season.

The Indians have a fine shooting team and are a strong offensive rebounding squad, usually with four men going to the boards.

They vary their defense from man to man, 1-2-2 zone and use a 1-2-1 half court trap. The Indians are very aggressive and have strong bench.

Kevin Bailey, 5-foot-9 guard, is the leading scorer in the SCOL, averaging 22 points a game. The Indians take advantage of his fine shooting and like to set picks for him.

The starting unit for Hillsboro will be: Bailey and Mike Vance, 5-foot-10, at the guards, Roger Jewett, 6-foot, at center with Dave Larimer, 6-foot-2, and Lawrence Turner, 6-foot-1, working up front.

Circleville is averaging 61.4 points per game and the tight defense of the Tigers has limited the opposition to 53.9 markers a game.

Kline is leading the Tiger scoring with 14.6 points per game, Harold Reed has a 13.8 average, Robin Martin is hitting for 11.8, Perry Hoskins has 10.2 and Doug Radabaugh is netting 5.4 for the Circleville starting five.

Irish Shatter LaSalle

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Give Notre Dame's basketball team a foot and they'll take a mile. Give them a sprained ankle ... and they'll take the ballgame.

The aggressive Fighting Irish, who usually don't need any help, got some Wednesday night when LaSalle star Joe Bryant injured his ankle.

And the result was predictable: Notre Dame 98, LaSalle 78.

"You take 19 points and 10 rebounds out of your lineup and you're in trouble," said LaSalle Coach Paul Westhead after the humiliation by the powerful, third-ranked Irish.

When Bryant hurt his foot in the first half, they were worse than in trouble — they were dead.

After he left, Notre Dame broke away from a 19-19 tie with a 13-2 scoring streak. Bryant came back in the game in the second half, but re-injured the foot and had to be taken to a Philadelphia hospital for the night. It was believed to be a severe sprain.

"We just had to throw away our game plan," said a pained Westhead, who also was forced to play most of the game without foul-troubled Charlie

Wise, his guard.

"From there, Notre Dame just put their best offensive man—Gary Brokaw—on our other scoring threat, Billy Taylor, and that took a lot out of our swing offense," said Westhead.

Before Notre Dame's stylish victory, 13th-ranked South Carolina hammered Villanova 63-47 in the opener of a classy doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra.

In other games involving the ranked teams, No. 7 Maryland stopped Virginia 88-81; No. 10 Pitt trimmed Kent State 83-70 and No. 11 Providence nudged St. Bonaventure 74-69.

Gary Brokaw and John Shumate, Notre Dame's brawny center, combined for 52 points in the Notre Dame runaway, the Irish's 17th victory in 18 games. Notre Dame has only lost to top-ranked UCLA this year.

Brokaw scored 28 points on 10 of 14 field goal shots, many of them eye-catching. Shumate had 24 points, on 11 of 14 field attempts. Billy Taylor led LaSalle, 12-8, with 25 points.

Brian Winters scored 25 points, triggering South Carolina past Villanova. The Gamecocks overcame a slow start to beat the game Wildcats.

Mo Howard scored five points in a 20-second span late in the game to help Maryland defeat Virginia.

Billy Knight pumped in 26 points despite a shoulder injury, leading Pittsburgh over Kent State for its 18th straight victory. The game was close until the last five minutes, when Knight helped the Panthers build an 11-point lead.

Marvin Barnes ignited a late rally that led Providence over St. Bonaventure. Barnes, who had 29 points and 16 rebounds, scored six points in a 12-point spree in the last five minutes of the game.

Florida State smashed Canisius 91-74 despite a 39-point performance by Larry Fogle, the nation's leading scorer.

Hayes Leads Hope Desert Classic

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Mark Hayes had the lead, Lee Elder had the goal, and Arnold Palmer had an observation.

Hayes, a softly-drawling native of Oklahoma and an obscure rookie on the pro golf tour, managed a wind-blown, four-under-par 68 for the first-round lead in the five-day, 90-hole Bob Hope Desert Classic Wednesday.

"I'm kind of surprised to be leading," said Hayes, 24, who has been on the tour only since last fall. "I thought the scores would be lower." A tricky, gusty, swirling desert wind took care of that, however, and left Hayes, Elder and Mike McCullough the only players under 70 after the first of five 18-hole rounds.

Elder, one of the few blacks on the tour, and McCullough, a one-time schoolteacher in Monroe, Mich., tied for second at 69.

"I want to win and I want to get in the Masters," said Elder, a consistent money winner in his half-dozen years on the pro tour but never a winner. A black has not yet played in the Masters. To be eligible, Elder needs a victory.

Lebron Harris, Rick Acton and New Zealand's John Lister had 70s. Of those six leaders, only Harris has scored a regular tour victory. The game's big guns were swept back by the sandstorms kicked up by the gusty winds.

Palmer, however, refused to take refuge in excuse of weather after his fat, four-over-par 76. Palmer's victory in this tournament last year has been his only tour title since 1972.

"The weather wasn't all that bad," he said. "I made some bad judgments and my chipping was just awful."

But, he observed, "it's not all that bad. I was seven strokes back after the first round last year."

He wasn't alone in his problems. Millionaire Billy Casper had a 75. Australian Bruce Devlin, a former winner here, had a 77. Rookie Ben Crenshaw took a fat 81 and his amateur team was disqualified when astronaut Gene Cernan signed an incorrect scorecard.

Lapham Happy With Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — David Lapham got a taste of winning after the football season ended for Syracuse. Now he'd like a full course with the Cincinnati Bengals.

"We were only 2-8 for the season," said the Bengals' No. 3 draft choice, "but my teams were 4-0 in postseason games."

"I like playing for a winner— and Cincinnati is a winner."

Lapham, a 6-foot-4, 260-pound offensive guard, is one of the Bengals' top draft choices who hasn't signed yet. But the Wakefield, Mass., native doesn't expect any problems.

"I always wanted to play for the National Football League. Right now I'm picking an agent and getting right into contract negotiations," said Lapham.

Birmingham of the new World Football League made him an 11th round pick.

The wide-shouldered Syracuse captain said he was worried his team's lowly record "might influence my chances in the draft."

But the Bengals held Lapham's pass-blocking talents in high regard. And with veteran Bengal Pat Matson headed for surgery, extra depth fit into Coach Paul Brown's thinking.

"My hopes went up when Bill Johnson, the Bengals' offensive line coach, showed up a week before the

Colonels Rip Cougars

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer

If the basketball court is the Kentucky Colonels' office, don't expect any outside charity from them.

They all gave at the office.

The Colonels registered a whopping 34 assists Wednesday night and showed Carolina no mercy, blasting the Cougars 125-111.

With the victory, second-place Kentucky still trails the New York Nets, 121-100 winners over the Indiana Pacers, by one game in the crowded section of the American Basketball Association's East Division. Carolina fell to two games off the pace.

Elsewhere in the ABA, the Utah Stars downed the San Antonio Spurs 88-81 and the San Diego Conquistadors pounded the Memphis Tams 136-120.

Newly acquired guard John Roche was the biggest contributor to Kentucky's cause.

"Roche is as sure a ball-handler as there is," said Kentucky Coach Babe McCarthy.

Roche, who had been wearing New York Nets letters on his uniform since being drafted out of South Carolina in 1971, was traded to the Colonels late last week for Wendell Ladner and Mike Gale.

Mitch Anderson of Northwestern led the Big Ten Last season in passing for touchdowns with 10.

Frericks Hurls Shot For Irish

Tom Frericks, former stellar athlete at Circleville High School, will be throwing the shot for Notre Dame's indoor track team Friday in French Field House at Ohio State University.

In his first outing for the Irish, Frericks placed second in a dual meet with Northwestern.

The tri meet, Ohio State, Notre Dame and East Carolina, will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Westfall Cagers In Action Saturday

Westfall cagers will see double action this week. They will be at Zane Trace Friday night and at Leesburg Saturday night.

The Leesburg game was inadvertently omitted from the county basketball story in Tuesday's edition of The Herald.

KSU Jury Appearance Delayed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating the 1970 Kent State University shootings got further behind schedule Wednesday as a key witness was sent home for a third day without testifying.

1st Sgt. Myron C. Pryor of the Ohio National Guard's Troop G, 107th Armored Cavalry who had been subpoenaed for Monday, left with his attorney shortly after reporting to be questioned Wednesday afternoon.

The attorney, C. D. Lambros, said his client was told to come back today because the panel planned to cut its afternoon session short to give jurors more time to get home as the result of a heavy snowfall which created hazardous driving conditions in northeast Ohio. However, the jurors left at their regular time.

Witnesses appearing before the 23-member panel Wednesday included Lt. Col. Charles E. Fassinger, who also had been subpoenaed for Monday. The others were not identified.

Fassinger commanded the 2nd Squadron, 107th Armored Cavalry, on May 4, 1970, when National Guard troops killed four students and wounded nine with a 13-second burst of gunfire during a confrontation with antiwar demonstrators.

He was with the main body of guardsmen who pursued students up a campus slope known as Blanket Hill after a rally had been broken up on the Kent State Commons. Fassinger was not involved in the shooting, which occurred on the hill.

Pryor, 46, has been identified as the guardsman who was photographed pointing a pistol with his left hand at students during the confrontation. He admitted pointing a gun at the demonstrators but denied that he fired the weapon. He is not on the Guard list of troops who fired during the confrontation.

Lambros said Wednesday that Justice Department attorneys indicated during a briefing of his client that Pryor would be questioned about all the events that occurred after the National Guard was ordered to Kent State by then-Gov. James A. Rhodes two days before the shootings. The order followed the burning of a Reserve Officers Training Corps building during a nighttime demonstration.

A source close to the grand jury probe, which began Dec. 18, said Wednesday that "seven or eight" of the more than 60 guardsmen appearing before the jury have refused on grounds of self-incrimination to answer the panel's questions.

Justice Department attorney Robert A. Murphy, who heads the team directing the investigation, has declined to say what action, if any, the government might take.

Man Dies Wednesday Of Gunshot Wound

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Gene Peterson, 25, died Wednesday in Saint Elizabeth Hospital of gunshot wounds received ten days ago in the shoe store he managed.

Youngstown City Prosecutor Edward Sowinski Jr. said a murder charge was filed against 22-year-old Kenneth Jeffries, a former employee in the Simco shoe store.

Sowinski said Jeffries surrendered to police after the shooting.

Child Care Center Application Rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An application by a Marion firm to operate a child care center for 30 children was rejected Wednesday by the Ohio Welfare Department.

The department said the Kiddie Kare Day Center has not met building code standards, has not obtained clearance from the state fire marshal's office and has not provided a separate room for infants as required by law.

Few Clues In Hearst Kidnapping

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say they have few clues to the whereabouts of kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. They are not ruling out the possibility her captors may still be holding her in this university town.

"For all we know they could be six blocks from here," Berkeley Police Information Officer Richard Berger said Wednesday of the white woman and two black men who abducted the 19-year-old Miss Hearst from her apartment here Monday night. "I wish we had some way of knowing where they are."

John Kelley, assistant agent in charge of the San Francisco FBI office, said "quite a number of men" were pursuing unspecified new developments. But he emphasized there had been "no big breakthroughs" in the case.

Neither the police nor the Hearst family has received any ransom demand or contact of any kind, Kelley said. Miss Hearst is the granddaughter of the late William Randolph Hearst, founder of the newspaper and magazine empire that bears his name.

Kelley said a special FBI artist from Washington was using witnesses' descriptions to make composite pictures of the three kidnapers, all said to be in their 20s.

He also said agents were circulating photographs of "possible suspects," both male and female. He declined to comment on published reports that pictures of women associated with radical groups were being shown to persons on the University of California campus here.

Florida Gets More Gas Deliveries

MIAMI (AP)—Gasoline deliveries are improving in Florida, but the state has dropped its "Come on down, there's plenty of gas" advertising.

In north Florida, most stations have gas enough to fill up anyone who stops. But central and south Florida have a tighter supply, with most dealers rationing customers to $2 or $3 worth.

In the Miami area, most stations still sell for only part of a day, are limiting sales and have long lines while they are open.

Oregon-style rationing has been adopted in six counties or cities within the last few days. Others are considering it.

Florida Turnpike stations, from central into south Florida, are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week but some are limiting sales.

Oil companies are dispatching trucks around the clock from terminals at major ports. That could change Thursday, however, depending on the reaction of independent truckers to a state Public Service Commission meeting on a request for new rates.

Federal officials have increased the allotment for south Florida after a near-panic situation around the first of the month.

Service stations began applying for higher gasoline allocations this week but it will take several days for decisions on those applications.

Soviets May Delay Wheat Delivery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon farm officials say they are unable to confirm reports that the Soviet Union has agreed to delay taking a substantial quantity of U.S. wheat that had been ordered for delivery this fiscal year.

But the Agriculture Department will issue a weekly report on exports Friday that might provide an answer, listings which showed that as of Jan. 20 — the most recent tabulation — the Soviets still had 32.5 million bushels of wheat to be delivered by June 30.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told a reporter Wednesday that he had "no confirmation" that Russia had agreed this week to delaying the deliveries until the new U.S. harvest comes in next summer.

Pressure to get the Soviets to delay remaining wheat deliveries has been exerted through private U.S. exporters who have been urged to seek postponements and by government-to-government requests to Moscow.

Vladimir S. Alkhimov, Soviet deputy foreign trade minister, had been quoted earlier as saying the delay in 1973-74 wheat exports had been approved.

If so, the denial of knowledge by Butz could point to postponements worked out through the private export trade with the Russians and not by official government agreements.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said he knew only of trade reports concerning Alkhimov's statement. But if true, he said, the delay would help assure the United States enough wheat until harvest in May and June.

"I think it would change the psychology of the market so that people who are holding wheat for the high dollar will start letting it go," Paarlberg told a reporter.

Paarlberg testified Monday before a Senate subcommittee that he saw no possibility of a flour or bread shortage if markets are kept open and export controls avoided.

If it turns out that Russia has agreed to postpone delivery of approximately 30 million bushels of wheat this season, that would boost the prospective reserve, or carryover, next July 1 to about 218 million bushels from 178 million USDA expects now.

That would still be among the smallest reserves on record, but Paarlberg and others think it would be more than enough to satisfy U.S. requirements until the new crop is ready.

Politics Involved In New Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Nixon, campaign time is at hand. That may be one of the reasons for the shift in tone and emphasis in his new federal budget.

One year ago, the President was warning Congress against too much spending, saying that he spoke the expressed will of the people with his demand for federal austerity.

Now he is talking of flexibility, and of busting the budget himself if that is what it takes to prevent a serious economic downturn.

His campaign is one of persuasion, with Congress and the public, as he seeks to end the Watergate case and vows to fight impeachment if it comes to that. It has to do with an issue, rather than an election. That comes later, in congressional balloting next fall.

In the current situation, he can hardly afford to see the economy lag into recession. New economic woes could only make his situation more difficult. For, properly or not, the climate of national opinion about the President will be a factor as the House considers possible impeachment proceedings.

And Nixon has experienced more than once the impact of economic recession on political opinion.

In recommending a $304.4-billion budget to Congress, he said the administration is prepared "to take further action, if needed, to offset the effects of energy shortages" on the economy. For action, read spending. A year ago, Nixon's budget message was a blunt lecture to Congress against spending increases and for a "change in direction demanded by the great majority of the American people."

He urged a rigid budget ceiling of $267.7 billion. Actually, spending is exceeding that figure by about $6 billion.

There is no such ceiling in the new federal budget. Nor is the White House threatening the impoundment of appropriations it does not want spent.

The withholding of past congressional appropriations is one of the areas under study by the House Judiciary Committee in its current impeachment inquiry.

Inflation was the prime economic problem early in 1973. Since then, it has worsened, the energy crisis has hit, and there is now a threat of recession.

Recession under a Republican administration was one of the problems he encountered when he first ran for president, and lost by a narrow margin, in 1960. Two years earlier, as vice president, he carried much of the campaign burden during a recession year, and saw GOP congressional candidates take a drubbing. After a 1970 economic downturn, he made clear his intention to go into the 1972 presidential campaign with economic growth restored and employment increasing.

Now, once again, there appears to be a meeting of two of the most inexact of sciences: economics and politics.

Claim King Faces Trouble Inside Ohio AFL-CIO Ranks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Journal-Herald reported today that key Ohio AFL-CIO leaders have told Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King to retire or face almost certain defeat for reelection this spring.

The newspaper said the ultimatum followed a secret breakfast meeting Wednesday attended by six of the nine members of the Ohio AFL-CIO Executive Committee.

Neither King nor AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Warren Smith was asked to the meeting, the paper said, and another member, James Tafelice of Cleveland, reportedly was ill and not present.

According to the newspaper, the group's decision was delivered to King by Harry Mayfield, Ohio district director of the United Steelworkers, the largest union in the Ohio AFL-CIO.

Neither Mayfield nor King would comment on the reports.

The paper said King had been offered an appointment by Gov. John Gilligan to a vacancy on the Ohio Employment Services Board of Review. The job, together with AFL-CIO pension benefits, reportedly would guarantee King a $32,000 annual salary.

King reportedly was told that if he did not step aside, the leaders of the Steelworkers and several other large unions would oppose him at the AFL-CIO state convention at Cleveland in May.

Wednesday's ultimatum reportedly was triggered by repeated King feuds with Gov. John Gilligan.

King has supported Ohio Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, in his bid for nomination to be Ohio lieutenant governor.

Gilligan has supported the bid by State Rep. Richard Celeste, D-49 Cleveland. The AFL-CIO Executive Board voted 24-3 Wednesday to endorse Celeste.

King, a former Toledo bricklayer, has been president of the Ohio labor group since 1961.

Ohio Gasoline Deliveries Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is better off than most states as far as February gasoline deliveries are concerned, according to a national listing compiled by the Federal Energy Office.

The statistics, published Wednesday by the Springfield (Mass.) Daily News, show the Buckeye State will receive 90.2 per cent of the gasoline deliveries that arrived in February, 1972.

Ohio was second only to Minnesota, with 97.4 per cent. Other states at the top of the list were Wyoming with 89.1, Iowa with 88.3, New Mexico with 87.8 and Louisiana with 87.7.

The figures were compiled by the FEO this week from distributors' reports on their projected deliveries, the newspaper said. Late arriving reports could mean slight changes in the figures when they are released by the FEO.

Man Sentenced In Shooting

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 37-year-old Cincinnati man charged in the shooting last summer of former lightweight world champion Wallace "Bud" Smith was sentenced to one to 20 years in prison Wednesday.

John Henry Lamar waived his right to a jury trial during the second day of testimony and was found guilty of first-degree manslaughter.

Smith died of a gunshot wound in the head. Police said he had entered a domestic quarrel between Lamar and a woman.

questioned Wednesday afternoon.

The attorney, C. D. Lambros, said his client was told to come back today because the panel planned to cut its afternoon session short to give jurors more time to get home as the result of a heavy snowfall which created hazardous driving conditions in northeast Ohio. However, the jurors left at their regular time.

Witnesses appearing before the 23-member panel Wednesday included Lt. Col. Charles E. Fassinger, who also had been subpoenaed for Monday. The others were not identified.

Fassinger commanded the 2nd Squadron, 107th Armored Cavalry, on May 4, 1970, when National Guard troops killed four students and wounded nine with a 13-second burst of gunfire during a confrontation with antiwar demonstrators.

He was with the main body of guardsmen who pursued students up a campus slope known as Blanket Hill after a rally had been broken up on the Kent State Commons. Fassinger was not involved in the shooting, which occurred on the hill.

Pryor, 46, has been identified as the guardsman who was photographed pointing a pistol with his left hand at students during the confrontation. He admitted pointing a gun at the demonstrators but denied that he fired the weapon. He is not on the Guard list of troops who fired during the confrontation.

Lambros said Wednesday that Justice Department attorneys indicated during a briefing of his client that Pryor would be questioned about all the events that occurred after the National Guard was ordered to Kent State by then-Gov. James A. Rhodes two days before the shootings. The order followed the burning of a Reserve Officers Training Corps building during a nighttime demonstration.

A source close to the grand jury probe, which began Dec. 18, said Wednesday that "seven or eight" of the more than 60 guardsmen appearing before the jury have refused on grounds of self-incrimination to answer the panel's questions.

Justice Department attorney Robert A. Murphy, who heads the team directing the investigation, has declined to say what action, if any, the government might take.

N.Y. Whale Is Expecting

NEW YORK (AP) — What do you do with a pregnant whale?

At the New York Aquarium on Coney Island, they watch it carefully, guard it against inquisitive sightseers and hope the pregnancy will come to full term without the disaster that beset the birth of Francis' calf in July 1972. That quite unexpected event was followed shortly by the death of the baby, which had been unduly excited by spectators.

Francis, a beluga, was the first whale known to give birth in captivity, and her accomplishment had led to a whale-breeding program involving her and three other belugas. If it succeeds, scientists have great hopes for benefits not only for endangered species but for mankind. And Francis has become pregnant again.

The spelling is correct; Francis is named after a man.

"All I'm looking for is land with grass or trees or shrubs or enough room to plant a garden," he explains.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — On Feb. 20, a congressional committee will start hearings that eventually could lead to live radio and television coverage of those great debates everyone reads about but rarely sees or hears — the verbal wars in the House and Senate chambers.

It's an idea that's kicked around for years, yet in this era of the electronic journalist, neither the House nor the Senate is allowing live broadcast coverage of its floor debates.

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, which will hold the coming hearings, began studying the matter last year.

It recently gave Congress a report that, to no one's surprise, said when the President speaks, he readily gets national broadcast coverage; when Congress speaks, its impact is frittered away in the broadcast shuffle.

It said Congress should explore ways to get its views across more fully to the public and hopefully fix a media-access problem that "poses a serious threat to the balance of powers between the branches of the national government."

It noted that the President "can routinely present his views to the people, directly and in his own words," on the networks and other broadcast media but that congressional views filter out through network news organizations, usually in highly fragmented form.

Despite the report's concern over the President's ready access to national broadcast time, this won't be the focus of the coming hearings, says Gene Peters, staff director of the committee involved.

"It's an incidental aspect of it, but it's not the prime purpose of the hearings," he said, noting they'll cover not only chamber debate but also committee sessions.

"Basically, what we're looking into is how we (Congress) can get our message across and why we're not getting it across," he said.

"We also want to know what people in the broadcasting industry think about what we're doing and how we could improve it."

"It's really exploratory, to get the ideas together," he said, adding that any recommendations the committee makes after the hearings will go to the House and Senate Rules committees.

A spokesman for Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., cochairman of the committee, said the hearings will be held Feb. 20-21 and on March 7 and 12.

Soviets May Delay Wheat Delivery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon farm officials say they are unable to confirm reports that the Soviet Union has agreed to delay taking a substantial quantity of U.S. wheat that had been ordered for delivery this fiscal year.

But the Agriculture Department will issue a weekly report on exports Friday that might provide an answer, listings which showed that as of Jan. 20 — the most recent tabulation — the Soviets still had 32.5 million bushels of wheat to be delivered by June 30.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told a reporter Wednesday that he had "no confirmation" that Russia had agreed this week to delaying the deliveries until the new U.S. harvest comes in next summer.

Pressure to get the Soviets to delay remaining wheat deliveries has been exerted through private U.S. exporters who have been urged to seek postponements and by government-to-government requests to Moscow.

Vladimir S. Alkhimov, Soviet deputy foreign trade minister, had been quoted earlier as saying the delay in 1973-74 wheat exports had been approved.

If so, the denial of knowledge by Butz could point to postponements worked out through the private export trade with the Russians and not by official government agreements.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said he knew only of trade reports concerning Alkhimov's statement. But if true, he said, the delay would help assure the United States enough wheat until harvest in May and June.

"I think it would change the psychology of the market so that people who are holding wheat for the high dollar will start letting it go," Paarlberg told a reporter.

Paarlberg testified Monday before a Senate subcommittee that he saw no possibility of a flour or bread shortage if markets are kept open and export controls avoided.

If it turns out that Russia has agreed to postpone delivery of approximately 30 million bushels of wheat this season, that would boost the prospective reserve, or carryover, next July 1 to about 218 million bushels from 178 million USDA expects now.

That would still be among the smallest reserves on record, but Paarlberg and others think it would be more than enough to satisfy U.S. requirements until the new crop is ready.

Claim King Faces Trouble Inside Ohio AFL-CIO Ranks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Journal-Herald reported today that key Ohio AFL-CIO leaders have told Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King to retire or face almost certain defeat for reelection this spring.

The newspaper said the ultimatum followed a secret breakfast meeting Wednesday attended by six of the nine members of the Ohio AFL-CIO Executive Committee.

Neither King nor AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Warren Smith was asked to the meeting, the paper said, and another member, James Iafelice of Cleveland, reportedly was ill and not present.

According to the newspaper, the group's decision was delivered to King by Harry Mayfield, Ohio district director of the United Steelworkers, the largest union in the Ohio AFL-CIO.

Neither Mayfield nor King would comment on the reports.

The paper said King had been offered an appointment by Gov. John Gilligan to a vacancy on the Ohio Employment Services Board of Review. The job, together with AFL-CIO pension benefits, reportedly would guarantee King a $32,000 annual salary.

King reportedly was told that if he did not step aside, the leaders of the Steelworkers and several other large unions would oppose him at the AFL-CIO state convention at Cleveland in May.

Wednesday's ultimatum reportedly was triggered by repeated King feuds with Gov. John Gilligan.

King has supported Ohio Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, in his bid for nomination to be Ohio lieutenant governor.

Gilligan has supported the bid by State Rep. Richard Celeste, D-49 Cleveland. The AFL-CIO Executive Board voted 24-3 Wednesday to endorse Celeste.

King, a former Toledo bricklayer, has been president of the Ohio labor group since 1961.

Ohio Gasoline Deliveries Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is better off than most states as far as February gasoline deliveries are concerned, according to a national listing compiled by the Federal Energy Office.

The statistics, published Wednesday by the Springfield (Mass.) Daily News, show the Buckeye State will receive 90.2 per cent of the gasoline deliveries that arrived in February, 1972.

Ohio was second only to Minnesota, with 97.4 per cent. Other states at the top of the list were Wyoming with 89.1, Iowa with 88.3, New Mexico with 87.8 and Louisiana with 87.7.

The figures were compiled by the FEO this week from distributors' reports on their projected deliveries, the newspaper said. Late arriving reports could mean slight changes in the figures when they are released by the FEO.

Politics Involved In New Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Nixon, campaign time is at hand. That may be one of the reasons for the shift in tone and emphasis in his new federal budget.

One year ago, the President was warning Congress against too much spending, saying that he spoke the expressed will of the people with his demand for federal austerity.

Now he is talking of flexibility, and of busting the budget himself if that is what it takes to prevent a serious economic downturn.

His campaign is one of persuasion, with Congress and the public, as he seeks to end the Watergate case and vows to fight impeachment if it comes to that. It has to do with an issue, rather than an election. That comes later, in congressional balloting next fall.

In the current situation, he can hardly afford to see the economy lag into recession. New economic woes could only make his situation more difficult. For, properly or not, the climate of national opinion about the President will be a factor as the House considers possible impeachment proceedings.

And Nixon has experienced more than once the impact of economic recession on political opinion.

In recommending a $304.4-billion budget to Congress, he said the administration is prepared "to take further action, if needed, to offset the effects of energy shortages" on the economy. For action, read spending.

A year ago, Nixon's budget message was a blunt lecture to Congress against spending increases and for a "change in direction demanded by the great majority of the American people."

He urged a rigid budget ceiling of $267.7 billion. Actually, spending is exceeding that figure by about $6 billion.

There is no such ceiling in the new federal budget. Nor is the White House threatening the impoundment of appropriations it does not want spent.

The withholding of past congressional appropriations is one of the areas under study by the House Judiciary Committee in its current impeachment inquiry.

Inflation was the prime economic problem early in 1973. Since then, it has worsened, the energy crisis has hit, and there is now a threat of recession.

Recession under a Republican administration was one of the problems he encountered when he first ran for president, and lost by a narrow margin, in 1960. Two years earlier, as vice president, he carried much of the campaign burden during a recession year, and saw GOP congressional candidates take a drubbing. After a 1970 economic downturn, he made clear his intention to go into the 1972 presidential campaign with economic growth restored and employment increasing.

Now, once again, there appears to be a meeting of two of the most inexact of sciences: economics and politics.

Voiceless Man Speaks Again

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — After seven years without a voice, Michael Ryan can speak again.

"It's like moving into a new world," said the Cincinnati man, who lost his speech as a result of removal of a cancerous larynx.

Ryan has been equipped with a recently-invented device that enables him to speak.

His first was a swear word. He was caught by surprise when the device recorded his reaction.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — On Feb. 20, a congressional committee will start hearings that eventually could lead to live radio and television coverage of those great debates everyone reads about but rarely sees or hears — the verbal wars in the House and Senate chambers.

It's an idea that's kicked around for years, yet in this era of the electronic journalist, neither the House nor the Senate is allowing live broadcast coverage of its floor debates.

The Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, which will hold the coming hearings, began studying the matter last year.

It recently gave Congress a report that, to no one's surprise, said when the President speaks, he readily gets national broadcast coverage; when Congress speaks, its impact is frittered away in the broadcast shuffle.

It said Congress should explore ways to get its views across more fully to the public and hopefully fix a media-access problem that "poses a serious threat to the balance of powers between the branches of the national government."

It noted that the President "can routinely present his views to the people, directly and in his own words," on the networks and other broadcast media but that congressional views filter out through network news organizations, usually in highly fragmented form.

Despite the report's concern over the President's ready access to national broadcast time, this won't be the focus of the coming hearings, says Gene Peters, staff director of the committee involved.

"It's an incidental aspect of it, but it's not the prime purpose of the hearings," he said, noting they'll cover not only chamber debate but also committee sessions.

"Basically, what we're looking into is how we (Congress) can get our message across and why we're not getting it across," he said.

"We also want to know what people in the broadcast industry think about what we're doing and how we could improve it."

"It's really exploratory," he said, adding that any recommendations the committee makes after the hearings will go to the House and Senate Rules committees.

A spokesman for Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., cochairman of the committee, said the hearings will be held Feb. 20-21 and on March 7 and 12.

King Pushes Health Care Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Most recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Health Care can be enacted by the General Assembly in a "reasonable time," said Frank W. King, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said Tuesday.

King avoided giving a time period, but said, "It will take an awful lot of work, and the odds are against any easy passage."

Gov. John J. Gilligan told an AFL-CIO conference he will submit his health care proposals to the legislature in about 10 days.

The governor declined to give specifics. But he told the 400 persons at the one-day session, "The people of Ohio have the right to decide what kind of health care they want to receive and how they want to pay for it.

"The work of the task force and this conference are beginning that decision-making process."

King said the "most controversial and eventually the most important" part of the report involves Blue Cross.

The 64-member panel recommended last December that the state consolidate the seven Blue Cross plans into one plan for better efficiency and lower premiums.

"It will be good politically for who ever does it," King said.

Gilligan is expected to include the Blue Cross idea as one of his legislative proposals.

The primary focus of the AFL-CIO conference was on the consolidation proposal.

"The seven-headed monster Blue Cross" should be consolidated, said Jim Ogden, assistant director of the United Auto Workers' region 2. "It's going to be a hell of a fight because we're going to take on quite a monster."

Ogden said, "We realize what we're taking on—the whole American Medical Association, the hospital federation and the insurance industry. We're not going to be disillusioned or deterred."

He said the Blue Cross plan has "built a monumental citadel and they are going to fight to protect it."

Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, told the gathering that he supported consolidation because "Blue Cross has never been sensitive to keeping health care costs down."

Calabrese said the legislature will consider Gilligan's health care package on an "issue-by-issue basis" rather than as a whole.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers of America, addressed the conference on a national health care plan, which President Nixon will send to Congress on Thursday.

"This can be the year of decision in Congress on a national health care plan," he said. "If it is not a year of decision, we must make it a major issue in the 1974 congressional elections."

Bill Promotes Appalachia Highway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis has done nothing to raise hopes for prompt completion of the 90 miles remaining on Ohio's 274-mile segment of the Appalachia Highway.

"We ought to do something as soon as we can," said Sen. Harry L. Armstrong, R-17 Logan.

The Logan lawmaker has revived a bill that would put more state money into the project without having to use tax money directly.

The bill, introduced first in 1973, would allocate the interest earned from state gasoline tax revenues while unspent money "is just laying there."

Armstrong said the interest amounts to about $4.5 to $5 million a year.

"Particularly since we have the energy crisis and it's going to cut down on the gas tax revenues, we need to do something to try to get this highway completed," Armstrong said.

Ohio's gas tax revenues are earmarked for highway purposes, but the interest they earn goes unearmarked into the state's general revenue fund.

Armstrong's bill would allocate the interest for the Appalachia Highway only until it is completed. After that the interest would be earmarked for the Department of Transportation for any of its pending projects.

The Ohio Contractors' Association, which supported Armstrong's bill last year, sent spokesmen before the Senate Finance Committee again late last month to ask its approval.

They once again said that Ohio in the last year lost out on about $4.7 million in federal highway funds for Appalachia because state funds to match them were not available.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's administration has spoken out against Armstrong's measure because, they said, the money it seeks to use "already has been spent."

Joel Taylor, an official of the Office of Budget and Management, said interest earned from the highway funds was included in appropriations for the current biennium along with interest from other special funds.

"The interest for the biennium, money that already has been spent, totals about $30 million," he said.

If this is the case, Armstrong said,

then the legislature could approve his bill to set the interest aside for the new biennium beginning July 1, 1975.

Even if there is a decline in the gas tax revenues leading to a decline in the interest the highway money earns, Armstrong said, his bill still might offer hope for a faster completion of the 274-mile stretch from Interstate 275 near Cincinnati over to the Ohio River at Belpre.

Armstrong said there is a move on to get the federal government to hike its matching funds for the super highway from the present 50 per cent up to 90 per cent.

"I've been told there is a good chance this will happen," he said.

This has been a big hangup for the Appalachia Highway. State matching funds get more mileage from Interstate projects, which call for 90 per cent federal support.

Had a 90-10 matching formula been in effect during this biennium and had the $9 to $10 million in interest been available Ohio might have qualified for as much as $90 million in federal funds, Armstrong said.

GOP Amends Funds Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Ohio Republican party filed an amended 106-page report to the General Accounting Office on campaign contributions in 1972, but the GAO hasn't examined it yet, an agency spokesman said Wednesday.

McCoy, an assistant to GAO Comptroller General Elmer Staats, also said he could not speculate when a comparison of the two reports would be made or the audit completed.

King Pushes Health Care Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Most recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Health Care can be enacted by the General Assembly in a "reasonable time," said Frank W. King, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said Tuesday.

King avoided giving a time period, but said, "It will take an awful lot of work, and the odds are against any easy passage."

Gov. John J. Gilligan told an AFL-CIO conference he will submit his health care proposals to the legislature in about 10 days.

The governor declined to give specifics. But he told the 400 persons at the one-day session, "The people of Ohio have the right to decide what kind of health care they want to receive and how they want to pay for it.

"The work of the task force and this conference are beginning that decision-making process."

King said the "most controversial and eventually the most important" part of the report involves Blue Cross.

The 64-member panel recommended last December that the state consolidate the seven Blue Cross plans into one plan for better efficiency and lower premiums.

"It will be good politically for who ever does it," King said.

Gilligan is expected to include the Blue Cross idea as one of his legislative proposals.

The primary focus of the AFL-CIO conference was on the consolidation proposal.

"The seven-headed monster Blue Cross" should be consolidated, said Jim Ogden, assistant director of the United Auto Workers' region 2. "It's going to be a hell of a fight because we're going to take on quite a monster."

Ogden said, "We realize what we're taking on—the whole American Medical Association, the hospital federation and the insurance industry. We're not going to be disillusioned or deterred."

He said the Blue Cross plan has "built a monumental citadel and they are going to fight to protect it."

Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, told the gathering that he supported consolidation because "Blue Cross has never been sensitive to keeping health care costs down."

Calabrese said the legislature will consider Gilligan's health care package on an "issue-by-issue basis" rather than as a whole.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers of America, addressed the conference on a national health care plan, which President Nixon will send to Congress on Thursday.

"This can be the year of decision in Congress on a national health care plan," he said. "If it is not a year of decision, we must make it a major issue in the 1974 congressional elections."

MEMBER NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF
MOTOR BUS OWNERS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis has done nothing to raise hopes for prompt completion of the 90 miles remaining on Ohio's 274-mile segment of the Appalachia Highway.

"We ought to do something as soon as we can," said Sen. Harry L. Armstrong, R-17 Logan.

The Logan lawmaker has revived a bill that would put more state money into the project without having to use tax money directly.

The bill, introduced first in 1973, would allocate the interest earned from state gasoline tax revenues while unspent money "is just lying there."

Armstrong said the interest amounts to about $4.5 to $5 million a year.

"Particularly since we have the energy crisis and it's going to cut down on the gas tax revenues, we need to do something to try to get this highway completed," Armstrong said.

Ohio's gas tax revenues are earmarked for highway purposes, but the interest they earn goes unearmarked into the state's general revenue fund.

Armstrong's bill would allocate the interest for the Appalachia Highway only until it is completed. After that the interest would be earmarked for the Department of Transportation for any of its pending projects.

The Ohio Contractors' Association, which supported Armstrong's bill last year, sent spokesmen before the Senate Finance Committee again late last month to ask its approval.

They once again said that Ohio in the last year lost out on about $4.7 million in federal highway funds for Appalachia because state funds to match them were not available.

Gov. John J. Gilligan's administration has spoken out against Armstrong's measure because, they said, the money it seeks to use "already has been spent."

Joel Taylor, an official of the Office of Budget and Management, said interest earned from the highway funds was included in appropriations for the current biennium along with interest from other special funds.

"The interest for the biennium, money that already has been spent, totals about $30 million," he said.

If this is the case, Armstrong said,

then the legislature could approve his bill to set the interest aside for the new biennium beginning July 1, 1975.

Even if there is a decline in the gas tax revenues leading to a decline in the interest the highway money earns, Armstrong said, his bill still might offer hope for a faster completion of the 274-mile stretch from Interstate 275 near Cincinnati over to the Ohio River at Belpre.

Armstrong said there is a move on to get the federal government to hike its matching funds for the super highway from the present 50 per cent up to 90 per cent.

"I've been told there is a good chance this will happen," he said.

This has been a big hangup for the Appalachia Highway. State matching funds get more mileage from Interstate projects, which call for 90 per cent federal support.

Had a 90-10 matching formula been in effect during this biennium and had the $9 to $10 million in interest been available Ohio might have qualified for as much as $90 million in federal funds, Armstrong said.

GOP Amends Funds Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Ohio Republican party filed an amended 106-page report to the General Accounting Office on campaign contributions in 1972, but the GAO hasn't examined it yet, an agency spokesman said Wednesday.

GAO spokesman Larry McCoy said the report was received Jan. 25.

McCoy said he did not know whether the new report listed figures different from those in a package of six reports totaling some 2,800 pages that was filed earlier.

McCoy, an assistant to GAO Comptroller General Elmer Staats, also said he could not speculate when a comparison of the two reports would be made or the audit completed.

Last Monday, the GAO released a report of its audit of Ohio Democratic party campaign activities for the year 1972. It referred several alleged violations of state and federal campaign laws to the U.S. attorney general and the Ohio state attorney general for investigation.

Nazarene Church Special Service

The Rev. Willie Dishon, pastor of the Regents Park Church of the Nazarene in Johannesburg, South Africa, will speak in a special service 7 p.m. Friday at Circleville Church of The Nazarene, S. Pickaway St.

Rev. Dishon is a graduate of Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City and served for a time as office manager of the Department of Evangelism at the international headquarters of the Church of The Nazarene.

7,594 Deer Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hunters killed 7,594 deer during the 1973 hunting season, a 44 per cent increase over the 5,249 taken in 1972, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources reported Wednesday.
